OUR SNAPSHOT COMPETITION

Of the hundreds of snapshots taken by amateurs, many are well worth reproduction, and it is to encourage amateurs to make the most of these prints that the "North-China Daily News" is offering a series of cash prizes for the best snapshot submitted every fortnight for the next two months.

Competitors are asked to avoid the dull and commonplace type of picture, but to try for originality, both in choice of subject and treatment of it. A picture with "news" value, one taken from a different angle : these are qualities that will be found in the prize-winners. The China scene offers unrivalled opportunities for the amateur photographer. Figure studies, street scenes, beach and other holiday scenes, sports, and a thousand other subjects are at hand. A little thought and imagination will suggest unusual angles and novel treatment of commonplace incidents.

Full details and entry form will be found on page 6 of to-day's issue. We ask competitors to read the rules through carefully and to be sure that separate entry forms are attached to each photograph submitted. There is no restriction as to the number of photographs sent in; there will be an entry form in every day's paper for the duration of the competitions.

A Man Who Acted

To the Editor of the
"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

SIR,—The scandalous situation to which your correspondents refer and which is commented upon by everybody in Shanghai, leaves our rulers and City Fathers quite cold, as usual. Why should they bother as long as they are not bothered?

In no place of the world is such a state of affairs allowed to prevail and in Hongkong, the local authorities have long ago taken the necessary steps. No bona fide tenant, whether with or without a lease, can be evicted if he pays his rent regularly and has accepted a normal increase of same. Furthermore, anybody mixed up with camouflaged profiteering as in Shanghai, that is to say, offering a flat under the condition that several thousand dollars should be paid for a few pieces of so called furniture, is severely dealt with.

In Shanghai nothing is done.

Your readers, Sir, might be interested to know that some years ago there was one man with brain and heart who did not remain indifferent to a state of affairs analogous, then, to that which now exists, although infinitely less severe. It was M. Auguste Wilden, then Consul General for France, who, on November 2, 1921, promulgated the following Order:

ORDINANCE

The Consul General for France at Shanghai, Chevalier of the Legion of Honour,

Considering the Municipal Regulations of the French Concession, dated April 14, 1866;

Considering Art. 13 of the said Regulations;

Considering that a severe lodging crisis is presently existing;

That it is a matter of public interest.

For the above reasons:

Has ordered and orders as follows:

Art. 1.—Any person who for the purpose of illegally speculating, monopolizes lodgings, may be brought before the competent Court and sued for damages, notwithstanding cancellation of leases if any and payment of rents in arrear.

Art 2.—Rent stipulated by landlords or lessee, above the normal rate of costs for the maintenance of buildings, and preventing thereby the free and natural competition in business, cannot be claimed in Court.

Art. 3.—Any increase of rent contrary to the way stipulated in Art. 2, may entitle the tenant to a claim in Court.

Art. 4.—Sums which are requested to be paid as "key money" cannot be claimed in Court.

Art. 5.—The reinbursement of sums paid accordingly can be ordered by the Court.

Art. 6.—Monopolizing of rent and request of "key money" may render the people who do so, liable if they are Chinese or under the jurisdiction of the Chinese Court, besides the cancellation of any lease, to a fine calculated proportionally with the sums illegally requested, whether for rent or as "key money" without prejudice, if necessary, of the penalties stipulated in Art. 362 of the Chinese Penal Code.

Art 7.—The present Ordinance takes effect as from today.

Made and passed in the French Consulate General in Shanghai on November 2, 1921.

Signed: WILDEN.
TENANT.

Control by Bye-law?

To the Editor of the
"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

SIR,—The apathy of the Shanghai resident is proverbial and because a few have been foolish enough to sign leases in terms of sterling or U.S. currency others a following like 'sheep to the slaughter.'

I am sure that with a little grit and determination a way may be found to circumvent the law.

The British or American Courts for instance can impose a fine for a contravention of a Municipal or Concession Bye-law.

The S.M.C. and Concession authorities have correctly or incorrectly controlled the price of rice and I am sure, therefore, that if a British or American subject were to corner the supplies of rice for the sake of extra profit he could be successfully prosecuted.

Now rice is a commodity no more than housing and if the local authorities have power to regulate one the same must apply to the other.

Is it not possible, therefore, to call a mass meeting of foreign tenants and pass a resolution demanding that the Concession and S.M.C. authorities pass a bye-law coming into line with the judgment passed in the Chinese Court that "increases in rent shall not be more than 20 per cent on those ruling at the time of the beginning of hostilities" and that it is illegal to charge in any other than local currency.

SEA LAWYER.

Shanghai, July 9.

Chinese Servants:

Mrs. Winkelman Defended

To the Editor of the
"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

SIR,—As one who has known MRS. J. L. WINKELMAN for the last 12 years, it is my pleasure, yet nevertheless my duty, to inform BE FAIR that the terms "Sour Grouch" and "lazy" cannot in fairness be applied to this lady.

Any wife who can find time to ride daily on horseback, swim, learn languages, besides running a popular studio, and not neglect home, husband and children, yet is not interested in cards, smoking and drinking, is to my mind a model wife, and BE FAIR would do well to emulate such laziness. I know it for a fact that MRS. WINKELMAN is very considerate of the health and comfort of her domestics, and none could pay them better wages. There is every reason to believe that more than half of the Shanghai housewives are dissatisfied with their servants in the matter of household labour, hygiene, and purchases of all kinds, etc. In my humble opinion the main issue is not the question of wages, but the servants' attitude that is at fault. The idea of employing foreign refugees as help is suggested as a partial solution to a very puzzling problem, in the absence of anything better.

Regarding compradores, I would say that three issues of price lists emanating from one store within a month is ample testimony of squeeze —or is it of "good business?"

And now, if BE FAIR really intends to live up to the meaning of this nom de plume, we would appreciate more constructive criticism.

MRS. T. A. DE CARVALHO.

Life After Death:

A Letter Which Thrilled

To the Editor of the
"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

SIR,—I really was perfectly thrilled to read F.D.Z.'s wonderful letter in Saturday's edition of the "North-China Daily News," and I do think we are due for great tidings, and so, indeed, we should get ourselves prepared. Confucius did say "What do we know of death, when we do not know life." I do not agree with him either, because I only recognize death as a passage-way into a greater and fuller life, for it seems to me there is nothing but life in some of its manifestations all around us, and that evolution today tends to the one ending—eternal life.

Peace on earth is the only solution to cure our ills, and then when we have secured that "sweet peace that passeth all human understanding," then, and then only shall we find time to turn our thoughts outwards and upwards toward the real and eternal. I am tempted here to quote "What if we gain all the world and lose our own souls?" The time is now ripe for us to think about the continuity of life, and I also believe it is best to begin right here and now.

Remember God Has Not Changed

Sermon Preached in Holy Trinity Cathedral By Dean Trivett at Mattins on July 2

TEXT:—"Do ye not remember?" St. Mark 8: 18. "This do in remembrance of me." St. Luke 22: 19.

OUR Cathedral practise is to hold the combined services of Mattins and Holy Communion on the first Sunday of the month. And I have thought that we could not do better in the few moments at our disposal this morning than consider, as we enter this service of solemn remembrance, the part that memory plays and can play in man's life.

Think first of the text from St. Mark.—Jesus said, "Do ye not remember?" There is a suggestion of surprise and even reproach in our Lord's question. It was only the day before that they had assisted in that mighty miracle whereby he fed 4,000 with the seven loaves, and a few small fishes. And now they are worrying about material things. Do we wonder that he reproves them for their blindness and lack of faith? He says, "Having eyes see ye not, and having ears hear ye not....and do ye not remember?"

Had They Forgotten?

Had they so soon forgotten the lesson of the feast just ended? If they had only remembered they would have been delivered at once from their anxieties and fears. If they had only remembered they would have known that as long as they had Jesus with them, that they had all things and would never lack. It really made no difference whether they had one loaf or a hundred, their fears were born of forgetfulness. And to banish all their fears and bring back confidence, all that they needed was to remember. It was a rebuke they would not be slow to forget, and it taught a lesson each and every follower of Christ does well to consider, a lesson that is particularly apt for us all in these troublesome times. Many are the temptations to discouragement today, and much there is to make the bravest afraid; but we are not to be despairful; we are not to allow anxieties to shut out the sunlight from our lives. I imagine that our Lord, as he sees our panics and alarms, could often say—with as much surprise and reproach as he did of the disciples on the occasion of our text—"Do ye not remember?"

Remembrance

Remembrance is a great antidote to weakness and cowardice. And I would suggest to you this morning that there is in the exercise of memory, a cure for all our timidities and fearfulness and discouragements. Now I am not forgetting that there is a stern and austere side to this faculty of memory. Did you ever stop to think of the part that memory might play in the final judgment? Memory passes stiff sentences upon us here and now, as we all can testify. But who shall endure it, if it should be as Tennyson puts into the mouth of Sir Percival,—

"Then every evil word I had spoken once
And every evil thought I had thought of old
And every evil deed I ever did
Awoke and cried, the quest is not for thee."

Every evil word, every evil thought, every evil deed.—They awoke. He thought that he had forgotten all about them, but memory had them in keeping all the time and in the hour of crisis they awoke. They came vividly back to consciousness. And I believe that is the true psychology of memory. We talk about forgetting. I wonder if we really ever forget anything? We talk of bad memories, memories that fail to retain facts, faces, names, events. And yet how often things we thought long forgotten come tumbling out when the proper stimulus is presented. For instance, a tune we have not heard for years, a scent, a face. They were not forgotten, but we did not know where to get them. Some peoples' minds are like a file carefully kept and indexed. Others like a box in which papers are kept in no semblance of order. One remembers, the other does not,—but in both the facts are all there, and the difference is in being able to reproduce them at will. One day the books of memory shall be opened. It is a thought we do well to consider earnestly. God grant we may so live that memory may never fill us with bitter regrets. For when memory wakes with some, it will be hell with fires that cannot be quenched and never die.

Higher Endeavours

But if from one point of view memory is a minister of judgment, from another it is a minister of encouragement and of inspiration; and of that I want to speak chiefly this morning. We recognize the inspirational power of memory by the memorials we build, and the anniversaries we keep. As we gather on Armistice Day and remember in that solemn service the men who gave, "all that a man can give, life itself, for God, for King and country and for the freedom of the world." We are inspired to higher endeavours, and reconsecration to the cause for which they died. Or as we wander about Westminster Abbey, in which all that is mortal of many of Britain's noblest and best lie buried,—as we read the inscriptions and are reminded of their sacrifices and their service, we are inspired and strengthened to run the race that is set before us.

But the remembrance that is most charged with inspirational and victorious power, is the remembrance of God and his many mercies. The old Psalmist was testifying to this great fact in human experience, when he said, "My soul shall be satisfied.... and my mouth praise thee with joyful lips when I remember thee."

Isaac Watts states the same truth in one of his hymns from the negative side,

"True tis a sharp and thorny road
And mortal spirits tire and faint
But they forget the mighty God
Who feeds the strength of every saint."

Our Fears Changed

Both sequences are absolutely true of life. We are full of fears and despairs when we forget,—when we have only in mind the present difficulties and the forces of evil which surround us. But when we remember that God is on the Throne, ruling over all, when we look back and call to mind all the way He has led us, and past deliverances, then our fears are changed to hopeful confidence and our "Misereres" to "Hallelujahs," and we become a praising and a rejoicing people.

In order that we may possess a brave and cheerful heart amid the manifold perils of the way, that is what we need to do—to remember. The past is there to encourage us. The counsel of Moses to the Children of Israel is still the best of good advice. "Remember," he said, "all the way the Lord thy God hath led thee." For he knew that as they looked back along the years of their wanderings all the way, they would see God's hand in their experience, His leading and His guidance, and constant evidences of His love and saving power.

How He Led them

When Israel passed on dry ground through the Jordan, Joshua was bidden to direct that each tribe, through its representative, should bring a boulder out of the bed of the river, and in their first encampment in the promised land to build those stones into a great cairn, that should be a permanent reminder to all their generations to come of God's wonderful care over Israel and how He had led them dry-shod through the midst of the sea. He knew that many difficulties and dangers lay ahead in the new land and that they would need something that would be a constant reminder to them of God, and which by that memory would kindle in them faith and confidence that as He had led their fathers so He would continue to lead them.

"Thou shalt remember." And that is what we need to do when the way is steep and the path is rough. When we come to dark and perilous places, when we find ourselves surrounded by troubles and difficulties, when prayers seem unanswered, when we seem forgotten and faith is well nigh gone, when we are tempted to despair, then remember. Recall God's dealings with you in the past. Remember how dark clouds we feared brought instead showers of blessing, prayers unanswered were better so and led to thanksgivings, how hardship and suffering have proved to be God's shaping circumstances and have fitted us for service and enriched our lives. Our lives, if we will but remember, are strewn with illustrations of God's love and care. We can all testify:—

"With mercy and with judgment
My web of life he move,
And e'en the dews of sadness
Were lustered with his love."

Sacred Rite

I am speaking to you in the midst of our Service of the Holy Communion, the most central and sacred rite of our Christian religion, an act of solemn remembrance. And as we eat the broken bread and drink the wine that has been poured out, we remember that His Body was broken, His Blood shed for us, that "God so loved the world that he gave his only Begotten Son to the end that all that believe in Him should not perish but have everlasting life." If God so loves His earthly children, can we not trust Him to care for us whatever may befall?

"This do in remembrance," and remember all His precious promises. "Lo! I am with You always." "All power is given unto me." "My strength is made perfect in weakness." And remember, these are not untried promises. They have been tested and proved to be most sure and certain by a multitude of men and women in all ages. Yes, thank God, we have proved them ourselves.

When Faith Falters

So when faith falters, and the way seems too difficult and we are tempted to despair, go back in memory to your great experiences of God, days when, like Elisha's servant, our eyes were opened and spiritual things made plain; days when prayer was real, and God seemed near; days when in the old home circle we knelt and heard a loved voice now forever stilled, talk to God. Remember these things, and remember too that God has not changed. As Francis Thompson so beautifully puts it,

"The angels keep their ancient places
Turn but a stone and start a wing
Tis ye, tis your estranged faces
That miss the many splendoured things."

God grant, in obedience, as we remember the past, the vision may come again,—faith restored, confidence renewed, eyes opened.

Son of Lord Sentenced To Three Years

Hervey Guilty of Stealing Jewellery from Women

SPECIAL TO THE "N.C.D.N."

London, July 8.

V. F. C. Hervey, aged 23, the son of Lord Herbert Hervey and nephew of the Marquis of Bristol, was sentenced to three years penal servitude at the Old Bailey.

He and three other young Mayfair men were found guilty of stealing jewellery worth altogether over £5,000 from the Mayfair flat of a wealthy woman friend during the Easter week-end, while she was away in the country, and from another West-end woman friend at a night club.

The Recorder told Hervey that he realised he was the main-spring of the conspiracies and said that the crimes were of the meanest description. "How low you stooped," he added, "you alone know."

The Recorder was equally severe with another of the accused, George Hearing, who was described as "betraying friends"—one of the two women victims. Hearing was sentenced to 18 months imprisonment. Two other men, G. Coop and W. Goodwin received sentences of two years and nine months respectively.—Reuter.

Edward German's Life and Music

The Life and Music of Sir Edward German, the distinguished and versatile English composer, will be recalled in a programme from Daventry, for which the story of his life—he died three years ago, aged seventy-four—has been compiled by Gordon McConnel.

It was in 1889, when he was twenty-seven, that German was given his first big opportunity—by the famous American actor, Richard Mansfield, who commissioned him to write incidental music to "Richard III," German did this so well there soon followed engagements to write incidental music to other plays by Shakespeare, notably for Irving's production of "Henry VIII" and Alexander's "As You Like It."

Light opera attracted German, and although he wrote much purely orchestral music, he is probably best known as the composer of "Tom Jones," "A Princess of Kensington," and the famous "Merrie England."

We commend to the special attention of the Shanghai Gas Company, the following paragraph regarding the policy of its sister Company, in Bombay. "The Bombay Gas Company has reduced, by no less than 45 per cent. the rates at which it charges the Municipality of that city for gas—a concession which will enable the Municipality to increase the number of its lamps from about 1,800 to about 3,000. The strongest argument employed in effecting this reduction has been the threatened introduction on a large scale, of the use of kerosene oil."

Mr. McNutt Pleads for P.I. Dominion Status

Dangers of Independence Stressed by Commissioner

Charlottesville, Va., July 7.

Mr. Paul V. McNutt, retiring United States High Commissioner for the Philippines, dramatically appealed for retention by the United States of its sovereignty over the Philippine Islands, before the Institute of Public Affairs here this evening. He asked that the islands be accorded dominion status.

Assuring all Filipinos the United States "will not impose her sovereignty by force," he frankly warned of dangers to the United States and the Philippines if independence were granted now.

"Without too great a loss of time and with cooperation from the leaders among the Filipinos, we should proceed to realistic examination of the needs of these people and the long range interests of ourselves," he said. American and Filipino interests could be harmonized "for the salvation of the Philippines," he added.—United Press.

U.S. Expedition to Go To South Pole

Washington, July 8.

President Roosevelt instructed Rear Admiral Richard Byrd, noted American explorer, to start preparations today for an official expedition to the Antarctic to chart United States claims. The expedition, Admiral Byrd said, will be ready to sail early in October. He said three ships would be taken. The President ordered the expedition to be fitted out despite the refusal of Congress thus far to provide funds specifically for the purpose.—United Press.

Rumanian Senators Will Not Wear Uniforms

Bucharest, July 8.

For refusing to wear uniforms when attending debates, several Senators were excluded from the upper house today. Included among these "rebels" are Constantin Bratiano and Jules Maniu, prominent political leaders.—Havas.

Lesson Sermon

First Church of Christ, Scientist.

Sacrament:—Is the subject of the Lesson Sermon read in all Churches of Christ Scientist, throughout the world on Sunday, July 9. Golden Text:—Psalms 51:10. "Create in in me a clean heart, O God; and renew a right spirit within me."

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson Sermon is the following from The Bible:—"For ye are all the children of God by faith in Christ Jesus. For as many of you as have baptized into Christ have put on Christ." (Galatians 3:26,27).

The Lesson Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy:—"Christians claim to be his followers, but do they follow him in the way that he commanded? Hear these imperative commands? "Be ye therefore perfect, even as your Father which is in haven is perfect!" "Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature!" "Heal the sick!"

WOMAN'S PAGE

A London Letter

By Olive Dun

London, June 11.

Ascot has nearly been the centre of a fearful tragedy. Less than a week before the races were due to open, a dressmaker's van with £500 worth of Ascot frocks on the way to customers was stolen while the van-driver was delivering one in Park Lane. But by superhuman efforts the dressmaker got new frocks made by yesterday and 50 or 100 customers breathed again.

The salvation in this crisis lay in the fact that many women this year are putting up with 10 and 20 guinea frocks, who would not, once, have been seen in anything under 50 guineas. We are all very prudent nowadays. Mr. Stanley, President of the Board of Trade, has been telling the world that a good time is coming, and trade will boom; and so, to help it along, we must all buy new frocks instead of hoarding our money in the bank. Years ago there was a song which ran;

Put a little bit away, for a rainy day,
For the sun won't always shine.
Put a little bit away, for a rainy day,
Or you may have cause to repine.
You will never be so young as you are today
So heark to what I say;
A man's best friend is his pocket in the end,
So always put a little bit away.

Nowadays that sort of thing is quite exploded. The economists tell us the only way to prosperity is to spend as much and as fast as we can. I suppose they are tired of hearing economics called "the gloomy science."

Ascot without the royal procession along the course must be shorn of much of its splendour. Yet it is incomparably the most splendid pageant of the season. Money is literally no object. What the race week makes (and that is more than somewhat) may only be spent on the course and the managers hardly know what to spend it on. Amateur gardeners read with envy that 3,000,000 gallons of water have been poured on the course owing to the drought. It is said that Sir Gordon Carter in his 30 years as clerk of the course has spent over half a million on improvements alone, not counting ordinary running costs. Now he talks of pulling down all the stands and building new ones.

If the hot weather lasts, women will be copying the Queen's example at Washington and carrying parasols. Washington has been so fascinated by the Queen and her lace-edged parasol that one storekeeper, besieged with demands for the like, is said to have ordered in 5,000. It is rather a mystery where he will get them, as parasols went out in America about the beginning of the century. Even here they are rarely seen. But since we are reviving so many old fashions, what a pretty one the parasol would be to bring back, and how comfortable and sensible. Only, so many young women seem to wish to tan themselves the colour of a Hottentot.

Advancing Womanhood

Mention of old fashions reminds one that Queen's College, Harley Street, the first in England that housed women students, is within measurable distance of its centenary. Queen Victoria gave £250 towards the founding of it and was always rather proud of having thus encouraged women's education. She gave the college its patent and every Queen since her has been its patroness. Yet even down to the seventies parents who sent their daughters there were considered very advanced. It was whispered that the girls who studied art attended "life" classes. For some years all the teachers in the College were men. But the students were carefully provided with chaperones.

How far we have moved is illustrated by the Bill propounded by girl students in Oxford's first undergraduate Parliament which has been meeting this week. Among its demands are that:

Women undergraduates be free to return to college any night up to 12 o'clock without special permission, and without having to state where they are going;

Women undergraduates be allowed to invite men visitors into their rooms any day between 1 p.m. and the beginning of Hall dinner, and into the common rooms until 10 p.m. without special permission;

Women undergraduates be allowed to provide alcoholic drinks at mixed parties in college;

Women graduates be allowed to live in unlicensed lodgings under the same conditions as men graduates.

The Bill was passed nem. con. And what is the next step? Who will beard the dons and donnesses and get their royal assent?

Out of the Harem

But once you let people taste a little freedom, there is no limit to their thirst. Thus from Turkey comes news of revolt against the new law which cuts out marriage festivities, dowries and wedding presents and limits a bridal procession to five carriages.

In no country is the emancipation of women, started by the late Ataturk 15 years ago, more extraordinary than in Turkey. At one bound women were projected from the imprisonment of the harem to full equality with men. At first it caused endless confusion. Men hated the idea of allowing their women folk to display in public the beauty once closely reserved for their lords and masters, and of having to woo and win a wife (only one wife, too, for polygamy was abolished) on their own merits. The women, too, were bewildered by their freedom, many older ones wept in terror at the thought of going out unveiled, there were not a few suicides.

But the girls very quickly rose to the occasion. Women doctors, lawyers and members of parliament are a commonplace in Turkey. And not many years ago a Turkish girl became the Beauty Queen of the world under the title of Miss Universe.

Only the old custom of ruinous wedding feasts remained. Instances occurred of villages shutting up all business for a whole week to celebrate a marriage, and of wealthy families escorting a daughter to her wedding with a procession of 600 horsemen and 3,000 guests. Parents were sometimes beggared for years through a daughter's marriage.

The transition under the new law is too severe and there is a big outcry against it. Probably it will be modified, but undoubtedly Turkish girls will soon see the sense of it as they have seen the sense of other reforms affecting themselves.

Wallpaper Is Back

Did you know that wallpapers were in use as early as the 16th century? This came to my knowledge through a very beautiful and interesting little exhibition of wallpapers mostly French and dating back 200 years, which has been opened in Bruton Street. The 16th century wallpapers are in Christ's College, Cambridge. But some of the 17th century are on view, including some fragments found in a house in Park Lane when it was being pulled down: a workman was carrying them off to be burnt when some one who knew about such things luckily saved them.

China was at one time a great source of wallpapers which were hand-painted as were most of the earliest kinds. Then people learnt to print them from wooden blocks, which method lasted till machine printing came in in the middle of the 19th century. By this time wallpaper designs, like the rest of Victorian household decoration, were becoming heavy and clumsy. A part of William Morris's crusade for better art in the house was devoted to wallpaper.

Some of the pieces shown in Bruton Street are historically interesting—hand-painted paper from a screen of Louis XV, some fragments from Robespierre's room in the Faubourg St. Honoré, with a raised pattern which looks like cut velvet, and wallpapers of Napoleon's court, which were called "dentelle Joséphine," the most delicate imitations of lace.

In recent years colour wash has greatly superseded wallpapers: it is cheaper, wears better and is more suitable to the pinched-up egg-boxes in which most of us have to live. But latterly there has been distinct swing-back to wallpaper. A friend of mine who for many years has made a decent living out of wallpapers tells me that he has never found it difficult so sell the best and most expensive: for these, as with the highest works of art, there is always a market. It is only the cheaper papers which have become unpopular. Which, you may say, is a very good thing.

Live and Learn

Two interesting facts emerge from the recent conference of the Associated Countrywomen of the World, with its 1,000 delegates from 57 countries. One was that the flight from the land which troubles us so much is a problem in most countries. Norway and Sweden both complain of it, and a delegate from South Australia drew a pitiable picture of farmers who only "stay put" because they are so terribly in debt to the banks that they cannot get away. Only British Columbia thought that a back flow from towns to country was beginning to appear. The spread of education and of popular papers are the enemies of a contented countryside. Men get the idea that there is bigger money for shorter hours in towns and of course a wealth of entertainment unknown in villages. British Columbia, quoted above, urged that farmers must be trained to be businesslike, a quality in which they are notoriously deficient. But more cinemas and something brighter than the village ale-house and occasional parish tea would do a lot to keep young men on the land.

The other feature was a description by Sweden of an association which provides rest and refreshment for tired housewives. One of its rules is that they must have breakfast in bed. It is a subject on which opinions differ violently. Personally I think it is the most detestable infliction. It is most difficult to take one's meal comfortably and one comes downstairs, when everyone has been up and doing for hours, feeling thoroughly out of tune with the world. In fact the only advantage of breakfast in bed is that it makes one so anxious to get up and be busy. Perhaps that is what they find in Sweden.

Lookers-On At The Game

Chalk-white piqué with gilded buttons provides the lady on the left with a mint-cool spectator dress, so easy for a last-moment slip on when you are complete in every other detail. On the right is a more formal frock, the bodice very becomingly folded.

Bather's Cape

A very attractive bather's cape hails from New York. It is made with a tie-on yoke and is suggested in cyclamen, lime, strawberry, navy or white.

Lester Chinese Hospital Women's Auxiliary

Some Splendid Work Accomplished

(Contributed)

A successful and pleasant open meeting of the Women's Auxiliary was held at the Hospital in June. Tea was served at 4 p.m. and afterwards parties of interested guests were conducted round the hospital by members of the staff.

The annual meeting followed when Mrs. T. T. Lew (President) reviewed the year's work completed by each of the sub-committees, and gave each their measure of praise. The Occupational Therapy Sub-Committee was enthusiastically commended for having organized a Bazaar and Fun Fair, the proceeds from which had amounted to $2,785.93. This project was carried out in addition to the regular work for patients.

The President reminded members and guests that the Women's Auxiliary was founded on the principle of Social Service through the voluntary co-operative efforts of public-minded women who appreciate the significance and importance of the valuable work carried on by the Lester Chinese Hospital. A growing Women's Auxiliary was needed and Mrs. Lew hoped that the visitors present would become members and would interest other ladies, Chinese and foreign, in the work.

The Autumn Bazaar

Mrs. Beynon reported that it was planned to hold a Bazaar on October 7 at the Cathedral School for Girls (by kind permission of the authorities). With one exception the proceeds of the Bazaar will be given to the Lester Chinese Hospital General Fund. The Occupational Therapy Committee will use the proceeds of their stall to finance the regular work.

Ninety dollars, proceeds of a bridge and mah-jong drive, held at the home of Mrs. C. R. M. Young, have already been contributed towards the cost of the tea. There will be stalls selling a variety of articles, a number of beautiful dolls to be raffled, side-shows, country dancing on the lawn and other attractions. Mrs. Maxstead will be pleased to receive or collect gifts of "white elephants" from donors.

Medical Superintendent Speaks

Dr. Paterson in, the course of his address said, "Splendid work has been done by the Women's Auxiliary in these past 2½ years but there is a more splendid future ahead of you, provided you are prepared to go ahead, to investigate, to experiment, to reck nothing of disappointment except as a spur to achievement.

It would be impossible to estimate exactly just how valuable has been the work of the Library and Occupational Therapy Sub-Committees. I do not hesitate to claim that one of the great factors in the success of these activities has been the great personal interest shown.

We have amongst our 270 or so patients a considerable number who have no real friends able to come to see them. Put yourself in the place of one of these sick men or women, tied up in bed, suffering and anxious, appreciating the ministrations of the staff, but without a friend taking the time or trouble to come in from the outside world to see you. Here is work for broadminded and sympathetic volunteers that would repay a thousandfold the trouble taken.

Last year we had 974 people brought to us after having attempted suicide. You are working out a problem here that so far, I think, has not been attempted in this part of the world, and, while it has succeeded remarkably so far, it still demands a spirit of adventure to carry it forward. The greatest gift you can give to the sick tenants of these hospital beds is your friendship, the miracle-working power of human sympathy.

List of New Officers

New officers of the Women's Auxiliary are as follow:—

President: Mrs. T. T. Lew;
Vice-presidents: Mrs. Sisson Nie and Mrs. F. W. Poate;

Foreign Secretary: Mrs. H. O. Stock;
Members at large: Mrs. C. C. Chen and Mrs. Bernard Read.

Too Old At Fifty!

This is a young man's age and it is popularly supposed that a man has passed his zenith by the time he is fifty. Whether this is true, however, depends entirely upon the individual, and health is a governing factor.

Premature ageing is frequently the result of impoverished blood. The heart, the lungs, the digestive organs, indeed every cell and tissue of the body depend upon the blood for nourishment, and, if the blood is weak and watery, the action of these organs is impaired with the result that health is undermined.

If you suffer from indigestion, have no appetite, are assailed by vague pains in the back and limbs, if slight exercise causes palpitation and you are quickly exhausted, you may be sure your blood requires building up and your urgent need is a course of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

The rich, red blood which these pills make brings new vitality, fresh energy and strength, appetite increases, and those symptoms of early decline vanish.

Women of middle age particularly appreciate the health benefits to be derived from a course of these world renowned iron tonic pills, and they are equally good for growing children who are not thriving as they should. Chemists everywhere sell Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

History of Malaria

Its Relation to the March of Civilization

The story which tells of the search for the cause of malaria forms one of the most dramatic chapters in the annals of science. It is a chronicle not only of the deeds of distinguished, dauntless and self-sacrificing men of learning, but also of the unceasing cast of the dice of success. A brief retrospect will serve to confirm these statements.

It is no exaggeration to say that malaria has played its part in the shaping of world history. It has swayed the destiny of campaigns and expeditions towards victory or defeat; it has been the cause of migration among peoples, and of the foundation of new colonies; it has carried off in their prime men famous both in Science and in Art; and it has proved a ripe theme for fiction and legend.

Time was when the beneficial effect of cinchona bark on this disease was accounted a miracle. An early narrative, upon which authorities of the highest rank have set a value which it is difficult to overrate, is that of Daniel Drake, an American physician of the last century, who wrote a vast and learned treatise on the malaria then highly prevalent in the Mississippi Valley. In it, however, is to be found this noteworthy remark: "Malaria is rife everywhere, but quinine disappoints our expectations."

Not long after, in 1817, Sappington, another American physician, having started practice in Missouri, began the manufacture of "anti-fever pills"; he also published a monumental work entitled "Theory and Therapy of Fever."

Blazing the Trail

The next contribution was made by the then youthful science of bacteriology. A Frenchman named Laveran advanced the theory that the cause of malaria was a living organism invisible to the human eye; this he was able to prove by blood-examinations of soldiers suffering from the fever. That was in 1880. Two years later the young American, Albert Freeman Africanus King, affirmed that this, the most prevalent disease in the whole world, was disseminated by mosquitoes. Finally, after another decade, the record of investigation is closed by the discovery by Ross of malarial parasites in the stomach cells of anopheles mosquitoes.

The facts are fully accounted for. What follows is the story of the synthesis of the new curative agents, and here the trail ends in the Bayer Laboratories. The materials there evolved received the names of "Atebrin" and "Plasmoquine," and the boon they bring is summarized in the statement that malaria has now become de facto curable. The proof lies in the fact that relapses practically never occur.

An added factor in the completeness of success is the possibility of entirely destroying the tropica-gametocytes in the blood by means of "Plasmoquine." For, since a malaria patient whom we are today able to cure radically can no longer become a source of infection, the possibility of dissemination is eliminated. A further important point is that, owing to its innocuity and reliable action, prophylactic treatment with "Atebrin" is easily and successfully carried out.

During periods of hard study and great strain

your nerve, body and blood cells need a strengthening food. Let that food be Sanatogen, the food that feeds the tired brain and nerve cells. Sanatogen gives that extra nerve strength which enables you to withstand the strain during periods of hard study.

Prof. Mann, formerly of Oxford University, wrote:

"A building-up process goes on in the nerves after the administration of Sanatogen".

"After an exhausting course of study combined with my routine work, I was ill for a considerable period. I found that Sanatogen was an excellent restorative".

Do not take chances with Hongkong foot which may develop into a very dangerous disease. The first signs of this disease appear between the toes. The skin is moist and cracked with painful irritation and often an unpleasant odour.

The moment these signs appear bathe the feet in ¼% Lysol solution (1 teaspoon to 2 quarts of warm water) keep them immersed for fully 15 minutes. Do this at least once a day—more frequently if possible—for at least a week. It is most important that it should be done before retiring. Dry the feet thoroughly but do not rinse them.

As a preventative of Hongkong foot and all other diseases it is advisable to pour a small quantity of Lysol into the bath as this will kill all germs and prevent illness.

Beware of cheap imitations of Lysol.

The responsibility of running an organisation smoothly and efficiently is a heavy load on anyone's shoulders. Should he be ill just for one day the consequences might be overwhelming. It is essential that he is always available, with a clear mind, to decide on the greater issues. An executive with ill health is not fitted for his position. One excellent method to regain good health is to take a regular course of Wakamoto Yeast Tablets, an inexpensive but effective method. Try a bottle to-day!

Nomads Trounce Police XI

A. Graham Most Successful With Slow Bowling, Taking Eight Wickets; A. G. Norman Scores 68

In the only league cricket match played yesterday, the S.C.C. Nomads gained easy victory over the Police on the former's ground by the wide margin of 103 runs. The Police tried hard throughout a most interesting encounter, but they were no match for their opponents in any phase of the game, the Nomads showing up very well in batting, bowling and fielding.

The S.C.C. side batted with plenty of enterprise against an attack that was far from strong, and the fast rate at which they scored their runs was more than appreciated by the large crowd on hand; runs had to be earned, for the Police fielding was far better than usual, and although a couple or so of hard chances were offered behind the sticks, nothing was missed in front of the wicket. Graham, Norman and Pote-Hunt all made good totals, the two latter batsmen exceeding the 50 mark with attractive knocks.

When the Police went in to bat after tea, Graham caused sensation after sensation by fooling the various players opposing him, his slow in-swingers causing heavy damage, and through his efforts—he sent down 15 overs—eight Police bats were retired for 53 runs. He bowled about two or so really good balls each over and they did the trick, and although the Police batting was not as good as it should have been, there is no doubt that Graham's bowling was as good as anything seen this season.

Probably realizing from the start that the Nomads were a little too strong for the lawmen, Leach drastically changed his batting order, and spectators saw Graham, usually the side's No. 11, opening the innings. And so it was all down the line with Leach himself going in last.

Norman Digs In

Elliot and Graham opened against Peasgood and Pitts, but in the latter's second over, the first named bat mishit a spinner and was caught in the slips by Peasgood. Norman replaced him and, after surviving a confident appeal for obstruction off the first ball he received, proceeded to play himself in and then set about the bowling. Graham, too, batted quite well and never gave a chance until the score had reached 84, of which he had contributed 36. He was then clean-bowled by Peasgood by a snorter.

Norman and Pote-Hunt, using their feet well and taking full toll of several loose balls, then took the total to 147 before the former was beaten by Baldock after a most valuable knock of 68. He played well, but at times was lucky. He should have been stumped twice and caught once behind the wicket, while some balls he edged dangerously near slips' heads. Nevertheless, it was a fine knock, his principal shots being eight fours.

None of the remaining batsmen gave a great deal of trouble with the exception of Pote-Hunt, who was ninth out after a faultless knock of 55. He was particularly serene on Pitts and made most of his runs in front of the wicket, reaching the boundary on eight occasions.

The innings came to an end at 213 when Leach was well caught at fine leg by Allen after the final partnership had added 18. Baldock, with four wickets for 24, returned the best bowling analysis.

Graham Leads Attack

Graham opened the Nomads' attack after tea and in his first over sent back Pitts and Barton, the first having his stumps disturbed by a full-toss which he tried to hit out of the Race Course and missed, and Barton being adjudged out l.b.w. to the first ball he received.

Gash and Fairbairn made a determined stand for the third wicket, adding 31 before the former fell to Graham's wiles. Fairbairn, who had batted stolidly for 16, and Allen, left one run later, and half the side were out for 37. Watson then went after the bowling and succeeded in scoring 25 in good time before he was run out at 78, he being the eighth man to be retired.

Dudley and Crank then added 26 for the ninth wicket before Crank was easily caught at mid-off and Dudley was last man out at 110, to give the Nomads an easy and well-deserved victory, which puts them at the top of the local league standings and the Police in the cellar position.

Shanghai Amateurs Rout Navy Nine

Civilians Collect Nine Runs in Second Inning To Put Game on Ice

Crossing the plate on no less than nine times in the second inning, the Shanghai Amateurs routed the U.S. Navy on the Race Course diamond yesterday by a score of 11 to two.

The Navy pitcher found trouble when he hit Krause with a pitched ball in that fatal second inning. Singles by Huebner and Brown towards the outer garden brought Krause home for the opening tally. Catcher Jordon dropped a third strike by O'Brien to score Huebner. Kabbery walked and the bases were populated.

A sharp single from the bat of Honeycutt, the winning pitcher, scored Brown and O'Brien. Then Schaberg tripled to deep right field and cleaned the bases. Riley went first on an error by Houser, while Schaberg dashed home. Ward sent a high fly over centre field towards the Shanghai Lawn Bowls greens, chasing Riley over the plate ahead of him and ending a 9-run spree.

Thereafter, the civilians took things easy and simply toyed through, adding only two more tallies, one in the third and another in the sixth.

Houser Gets Three Hits

Second Baseman Houser of the sailor squad did remarkably well with the stick by rapping out three hits in four tries. He clouted a three-bagger in the fourth inning and a homer in the stretching canto.

It was in this session that the sailors countered their two tallies, for immediately after the four-bagger, Casey singled and finally scored on an error by Knause when La France batted a hot grounder towards third base. Houser finished up with a low fly towards right field in the ninth inning.

Shanghai Women's Doubles Champions

Staging a timely in the second set, Mrs. Thelma Collaco and Mrs. "Billie" Krenov captured the Shanghai Ladies Doubles Championship yesterday by defeating Mrs. M. Reader Harris and Miss M. S. Holwill in the final by 1-6, 7-5 and 6-2.

Bad Day for Leading Teams in Major Baseball League

Boston Red Sox Head List of Surprises by Taking Double Off Yankees; Reds Bow to Cubs

New York, July 8.

MAJOR league baseball leaders had their leads cut substantially today but still enjoyed comfortable margins. The Boston Red Sox grabbed both ends of a double-header with the New York Yankees, 3-1, and 3-2.

Fritz Ostermueller and Dennis Galehouse held the world champion sluggers to four hits and five hits respectively.

A home run by Jimmy Foxx, barrel-chested Boston first-baseman, clinched the opening game in the ninth inning. The Sox collected 10 hits off Oral Hildebrand, Steve Sundra and Johnny Murphy.

The Sox bunched their five hits in the nightcap. Two runs came in the third inning when Roger Cramer doubled, Foxx bunted, Ted Williams doubled and manager Joe Cronin clouted a long sacrifice fly.

It was the third straight victory for Boston over the champions.

The National League leading Cincinnati Reds bowed to the Chicago Cubs, 7-6 Claude Passeau, purchased from the Phillies to take the injured Clay Bryant's place on the Cub pitching staff, started on the mound for Chicago but ran into trouble.

The Veteran Charlie Root relieved him, and won his own ball game with a ninth-inning homer.

The second-place New York Giants won the first of two games with Brooklyn 8-3, but lost the nightcap, 3-2.

Five Runs In Inning

Luke Hamlin started pitching the opener for the Dodgers and got along fine until the eighth inning. Then the Giants tallied five runs on four hits including Joe Moore's homer with one man on base.

The Giants threatened to make a similar rally in the eighth inning of the nightcap. They filled the bases with two men out. The heavy-hitting first-baseman Zeke Bonura then came to bat and clouted a very long fly but Harry Lavagetto raced back to the fence and caught it to end the rally.

Freddie Fitzsimmons, former Giant, pitched the final inning for the Dodgers and held his former teammates scoreless.

The hapless Philadelphia Phillies lost their eleventh consecutive game, 4-0 to the Boston Bees. Lou Fette held the Phils to three hits and registered the only shut-out of the day.

The Cardinals-Pirates game in Pittsburgh was postponed because of wet grounds.

The Washington Senators slammed out 13 hits in the first of two games with Philadelphia but lost, 6-5.

Dick Siebert, youthful Athletics infielder, collected a single, a double and a triple in four times at bat. He drove in two runs and scored three.

Washington got revenge in the nightcap, 6-3.

Rookie Scores Homer

Jim Bloodworth, 21-year-old rookie infielder replacing Boddy Myer at second base, hit a homer for the Senators. Bob Johnson homered for the Mackmen.

Cleveland split a double header with St. Louis. The Indians won the opener, 5 to 3.

The Browns took the nightcap, 10 to 9, despite ninth inning homers by Hal Trosky and Roy Weatherly.

Tom Bridges, star of the Detroit pitching staff, suffered his second defeat of the season as the Tigers lost to Chicago, 10 to 5.

Joe Kuhel, White Sox first baseman, sent Bridges to the showers with a seventh inning triple with the bases loaded. The defeat dropped Bridges back to a tie with Red Ruffing of the Yanks for third place in the American League pitching averages.

The first girl sheep-shearer to compete against men in the Hyde Park shearing contest won a silver medal, which was presented to her by Earl de la Warr, President of the Board of Education. She is Miss Evelyn Wood, aged 20, daughter of a north Riding cattle dealer. She had been forbidden to take part by her doctor, who is attending her for laryngitis. The medal for the best individual effort went to Henry T. Davies, a scholarship student at the Institute of Agriculture, Monmouth, while the winning team, represented by K. Wells and L. Kitchen, was Nottingham A. trained by Mr. J. S. Featherstone.

Remarkable Recovery Seen in Women's Doubles Final

Mrs. Krenov, Mrs. Collaco Win Local Championship After Losing First Set, Down 4-2 in Second

FACING almost certain defeat after having lost the first set by 6-1 and trailing by 4-2 in the second, Mrs. B. Krenov and Mrs. T. Collaco suddenly took a new lease on life and rallied to defeat Mrs. M. Reader Harris and Miss M. S. Holwill in the final of the Shanghai Ladies Doubles Championship on the S.L.T.A. court yesterday afternoon with the score of 1-6, 7-5 and 6-2.

The champions failed to impress when they were unable to solve their opponents' play. While Mrs. Collaco was in her usual good form at the net, Mrs. Krenov made a number of mistakes by driving either into the net or out of the court. On the other side, Mrs. Reader Harris played steadily on the base-line, returning almost every shot to the far corners, while Miss Holwill gave the best of assistance, serving strongly and proving a threat at the net.

Play started with Miss Holwill serving. She lost the first two points but came back to win four in a row. Mrs. Krenov was responsible for the loss but she redeemed herself by winning the second game to love. Mrs. Reader Harris put her side to the front for the second time and the early leaders simply breezed through in less than a quarter of an hour to be one set ahead.

Lead Alternates

The second set began with Mrs. Krenov losing a deuced game. Mrs. Reader Harris lost hers at 40-30 and then Mrs. Collaco gave her side the lead for the first time by taking the third game, also at 40-30. Then came a spell when Mrs. Reader Harris and her partner fought with grim determination. Mrs. Krenov was erratic during the sequence and was to blame for allowing the score to be tied at 2-all, losing the game after two deuces.

With much difficulty, the ultimate losers won two more games to obtain a safe lead of 4-2. Mrs. Krenov then returned to form and evened up to 4-all. At this stage, Mrs. Reader Harris and partner struggled hard to regain the advantage by winning a game on Mrs. Collaco's service, but the partnership broke down under pressure to lose three games in a row for the match to be deadlocked at 1-set all.

Deciding Third Set

Starting the third and deciding set well, Mrs. Krenov and partner stormed the net every time they had the chance. Their aggressive tactics baffled their opponents, especially Miss Holwill, who netted two crucial points and dropped the opening game after a deuce. The next game also reached deuce before the ultimate winners won it. Then the score came to 3-nil, with Miss Holwill repeatedly driving straight to her opponents at the net.

The next two games were won by the losing pair. Miss Holwill, serving the all important sixth game, fought from a deficit of 15-40 and caught up to deuce. But she and Mrs. Reader Harris found it impossible to outplay their adversaries and dropped the game, which was followed by the loss of another pair of games and with them the championship.

At the conclusion of the match, prizes, were presented by Mr. A. H. George, C.M.G. member of the Committee of the Association. The official congratulated the winners for their fine display in staging a fine rally and the losers for going down in defeat after a game fight.

Wally Hammond Makes Double Century

Seagulls Use Cricket Pitch at Pontypridd

SPECIAL TO THE "N.C.D.N."

London, July 8.

A brilliant double century by Hammond, the Gloucester and England skipper, was the feature of the only first-class cricket match not interfered with by rain today.

Hammond made 207 of his team's total of 432 against Essex at Westcliff.

Rain today prevented play in six matches and interrupted others. The Sussex XI, arriving at Pontypridd for their game with Glamorgan, found that the River Taff had flooded the ground and seagulls were swimming over the pitch.

Details of scores where some play was possible were:

At Southampton—Northants 146 (Hill six for 45). Hampshire 51 for two.

At the Oval—Surrey 186. Kent 114 for two.—Reuter.

Magnate's Colt Wins

Inglewood, Calif., July 8.

Shining One, a bay colt owned by Edward Moore, a railroad magnate from Sheridan, Wyoming, staged a brilliant stretch drive here today to capture the US$25,000 Hollywood Derby in a field of ten three-year-old. Wedding Call was second and Counterpoise third.—United Press.

S.L.B.C. Reds, Blues Win

Police Score Easy Victory Over Country Club; Yangtzepoo Extended by S.L.B.C.; J.G.C. Win

THE ever-victorious Shanghai Lawn Bowls Club Blues scored another impressive victory in the First Division of the Shanghai Lawn Bowls League yesterday when they beat the Yangtzepoo Bowling Club by 69 shots to 44.

With the Reds also winning from the powerful Lusitano team by 63 shots to 54, the two S.L.B.C. teams are now well ahead at the top of the standings.

The Police did extremely well on their own greens to take the measure of the Country Club by 75 shots to 42, winning on all three rinks. This victory has enabled them to overhaul Yangtzepoo in the standings and they are now third.

The Hongkew Golf Club, who have failed to in this season, lost to the Shanghai Junior Golf Club at home, by 64 shots to 57.

In the Second Division, with their rivals, Clube Lusitano, having drawn a bye, Yangtzepoo consolidated their lead by beating the Shanghai Lawn Bowls Club by 57 shots to 54.

The Barbarians, playing away at the Junior Golf Club, scored their second victory of the season when they won by 68 shots to 47.

FIRST DIVISION

Blues Easy Winners

Playing on their own greens, the S.L.B.C. Blues won easily from the Yangtzepoo Bowling Club by a margin of 25 shots, 69 to 44. The Blues won handily on all rinks, giving a most impressive display against a strong visiting team.

H. Wallace, whose rink has excelled in every match this season, again played a conspicuous part in the Club victory, establishing a margin of 12 shots over that of W. A. Bailey, winning by 27-15.

W. A. Turnbull's rink also had things very much their own way, accounting for the opposition, led by R. C. Aitkenhead, by 23 shots to 14.

The closest match of the three was between C. Richard's rink and L. Beattie's, ending in a 19-15 victory for the former.

By virtue of their victory, the Blues have established a commanding lead in the senior League and are well on their way to winning the Championship.

Reds Win From Lusitano

Doing even better than their Club-mates, the Blues, the S.L.B.C. Reds won by 63 shots to 54 from Clube Lusitano at Hongkew Park. Against the same team, the Blues only just managed to win, whereas the Reds took four points by winning on two rinks.

T. S. Parry's rink scored a conspicuous victory in taking the measure of H. A. Ozorio's rink by 18 shots, 28-10. This large win enabled the Reds to take the game, as honours were divided in the other two rinks.

J. M. B. Gutierrez's rink played a brilliant game to triumph by 30-17 over E. R. Harmer's rink.

In the best game of the match, W. J. Monk's team beat A. M. Gutierrez's by 18-14.

Police Do Well

On their own greens, the Police did extremely well to beat the Country Club on all rinks, winning by the decisive score of 75 shots to 42.

The biggest win was scored by Wilkinson's rink over L.A. Beith's, by 30 shots to 16.

R. Conduit's four also won comfortable, beating F. C. Harrison's by 27 shots to 12.

In the third game, Hogg's four just beat M. Hendry's, by 18 to 14.

Junior Golf Club Wins

Fulfilling expectations, the Junior Golf Club scored an away win over the Hongkew Golf Club, by 64-57, winning on two rinks.

A handy win by Ed Souza's rink over C. Clements, by 30 shots to 16, enabled the Hongkew Golf Club to put up a good show.

In the two other rinks, R. Thomson's four beat A. Portaria's by 26 shots to 12, while K. Swartzell's beat E. J. Pereira's by 22 shots to 15.

SECOND DIVISION

Yangtzepoo Increases Lead

The Yangtzepoo Bowling Club managed to take four points off the Shanghai Lawn Bowls Club, on their own rinks, to consolidate their lead in the Second Division. It was an extremely close match, with the home team winning by only three shots, 57-54.

E. E. Wallwork's rink nearly won the game for the S.L.B.C., for they trounced their opposite numbers, led by W. Simpson, by 20 shots, 30 to 10.

Yangtzepoo, however, won by comfortable margins in the other two rinks to offset this huge deficit. R. N. Jordon's rink beat W. Lyle's by 16 shots, 27-11, while R. Fyfe's won from J. A. Brown's by 20 to 13.

Playing away at the Junior Golf Club, the Barbarians scored their second win of the season when they outplayed the home team by 68-47. The visitors won on two rinks and lost the third.

H. Cornfield's four beat D. A. Cumming's by 20-14 to score the Junior Golf Club's only point.

T. J. Marks' four won from F. Stebbeds' by 27 to 15, while J. Lovell's took the measure of A. Letchford's by 27 to 12.

The home team was not at full strength, having to call on several reserved to complete the side.

Wooderson Wins in Record Time

British Miler First in A.A.A. Mile Event for Fifth Year Running

London, July 8.

Before a crowd of 40,000 cheering spectators at the White City Stadium today, Sydney Wooderson, the holder of the world mile record, won the mile event in the British athletic championships for the fifth successive time.

His time was 4 mins. 11.8 seconds, a new British and Championship record.

Both Pell and Collyer, who came in second and third respectively, also bettered the old record, their times being 4 mins. 12 seconds and 4 mins. 15 seconds.

A new British and Championship record was also set up in the three-miles race, which Emery won in 14 mins. 8 seconds. He was followed home by Ward and Reeve in the order given.

Sweeney (Great Britain) proved to be the speediest man in the meet when he won 100 yards dash in 9.9 seconds.

Pennington (Britain) took the 440 yards in 48.8 seconds, while Webster (Britain) won the pole vault with a height of 12 ft. 3 inches.

The 26-mile marathon went to Robertson (Britain), who took 2 hours 35 mins. 37 seconds to cover the distance.

Yarrow (Britain) was second, 13 seconds behind the winner, while Lalande (South Africa) was third, his time being 2 hours 44 mins. 1 second.

Blackheath Harriers won the 440 yards relay in 43.4 seconds.

Brown, well-known British middle-distance runner, captured the 880 yards in 1 min. 55.1 seconds; Holmes (Britain) won the 220 yards in 21.9 seconds; McKillop (Britain) took the javelin throw with a distance of 186 ft. 7 inches; and Breach (Britain) captured the long jump with a leap of 23 ft. 8 inches.—Reuter.

Americans Retain Polo Championship

Defeating Britain in the first two matches of the series, America easily retained the Westchester cup at Meadowbrook recently. Eric Tyrell-Martin (front), hard-riding back of the British team, is seen making a beautiful backhand save in the first match. The Americans won by 11-7.

Parsees Easily Defeat Service Side

Army Batsmen Give Poor Display, All Out 54

On their own ground yesterday afternoon, a Parsee XI comfortably defeated the Army Embarkation Staff Office side in a friendly cricket encounter, scoring 121 and retiring their opponents for 54 to win by 67 runs.

Taking first knock, the Parsees, after the early loss of Kuka, made runs quickly against a good attack, Commissariat and H. P. Karanjia batting very attractively, seoring all round the wicket. The latter was eventually out at 66 by the l.b.w. route, while ten runs later his partner followed him back to the pavilion. Both recorded five hits to the tapes in innings of over thirty.

After their dismissal, a mild rot set in and only R. F. Shroff, could reach double figures. He was eventually last man out wren the board read 121, after knocking up 13 in very short order.

Army Betting Weak

When the soldiers went to bat after tea, they put up a very poor show, Jones alone being-able to reach double figures, while no less than seven players failed to open their account.

Wickets fell at regular intervals to a varied attack, Jones being the only player on the side who could deal with the well placed deliveries. As it was, he scored 37 out of the total of 54 and was ninth man out after having batted from the start of the innings.

Despite the fact that he never seemed in difficulties he only managed to reach the boundary twice, which speaks well for the Parsee fielding.

Viccajee performed best with the ball, getting three wickets for 16, although all the bowlers tried did their share in retiring their opponents.

Americans Win All Wimbledon Titles

Bobby Riggs, Miss Alice Marble Make Grand Slam Winning All Events

London, July 8.

Led by Bobby Riggs and Miss Alice Marble, each of whom won three championships, the United States today made a clean sweep of all Wimbledon titles, including the consolation tournament for players beaten in the first and second rounds.

Great Britain's only consolation was the Ladies Plate, in which Mrs. McKelvie beat Mlle. Wiewers (Luxembourg) in the final by 6-4, 4-6, 6-2.

Both Bobby Riggs and Miss Alice Marble, the American number ones, achieved the "grand slam" in tennis honours.

Riggs captured the men's singles, the men's doubles and the mixed doubles, while Miss Marble won the women's singles, the women's doubles and the mixed doubles.

The consolation tournament was won by McNeill, who beat the Belgian Van Deneynde by 8-6, 6-2.

Miss Marble experienced no difficulty in defeating Miss Katherine Stammers in the women's final, triumphing by 6-2, 6-0.

Whirlwind Display

The winner gave another whirlwind display of accurate hard-hitting. She repeatedly out-manœuvred the British girl who, despite a good forehand, was unable to counter the American's attacks.

Miss Stammers' challenge to American supremacy had aroused tremendous interest, but she failed to repeat her last year's Centre Court victory in the Wightman Cup.

Cooke and Riggs won the Men's Doubles against Hare and Wilde, of Britain, by 6-3, 3-6, 6-3, 9-7.

The British pair led by 3-2 and 5-4 in the final set, and saved five match points at 7-6.

In the final of the Women's Doubles Mrs. Fabyan and Miss Marble (America) won in the easiest manner against Miss Helen Jacobs (America) and Miss Yorke (Britain), losing only one game in two sets—6-1, 6-0.

The Mixed Doubles final resulted in Riggs and Miss Marble overcoming Wilde and Miss Nina Brown (Britain) by 9-7, 6-1. The British pair had previously, in the presence of Queen Mary, eliminated the Americans, Cooke and Mrs. Fabyan by 6-3, 7-5.—Reuter.

3 Henley Races Won by Americans

Grand Challenge Cup is Captured by Harvard as Canadian Crew Beaten

Henley, July 8.

Three of the most important events were captured by the United States as the Henley Regatta was brought to a conclusion today.

The Grand Challenge Cup is crossing the Atlantic for the first time since 1914 as a result of Harvard University's victory over Argonaut (Canada) by three lengths in the final of the event. The time was 7 mins. 40 seconds.

The second American victory was in the Diamond Sculls, which J. W. Burk won for the second year in succession by defeating Verey, the Polish and European champion, after a great race.

The American finished 1¼ lengths in front to equal the record time of 9 mins. 13 seconds.

Then, in an all-American final, Tabor Academy beat Kent School by 1¼ lengths to win the Thames Cup, one of the most coveted championships in the Regatta. The time was 7 mins. 53 seconds.

The Duke of Kent watched this race and afterwards presented the prizes.

Zurich Rowers Win

The Stewards' Cup also went out of the country when the Zurich Rowing Club beat Oriel College (Oxford) by four lengths.

Zurich staged a strong finish to repeat their successes in 1935 and 1936.

The Olympic champion, Jack Beresfird, Jr., and L. F. Southwood deadheated with the Italians, Scherli and Broschi, after a great race in the final of the Centenary Double Sculls, an event instituted to commemorate the centenary of the Regatta.

The time was 8 mins. 35 seconds.

The race was not re-rowed, each receiving a presentation cup.

In the Silver Goblets, Sanford H. Parker (Trinity Hall, Cambridge) beat Carpmael R. Parker (London Rowing Club) by 2½ lengths in the time of 9 mins. 5 seconds.—Reuter.

Neale Wins Title

New York, July 8.

Emery Neale second ranking player in the Pacific Northwest, defeated Frank Dunham, 6-1, 1-6, 6-5 in the opening round of the New York State clay court tennis championships.—United Press.

First Battalion Invincible In City Baseball League

Headquarters Troop Beaten 15-6 as Rossmen Go On Rampage in First Five Innings for 12 Runs

GATHERING no less than a dozen runs in the first five innings, the First Battalion again proved invincible in the City Baseball League when they heavily trounced the Headquarters Troop yesterday afternoon on the Race Course by 15-6.

The "Orphans" played an extremely poor game in which a number of errors in fielding were seen. They tried out four pitchers during the nine innings, but to no avail as the Rossmen hit relentlessly throughout the tussle.

Lefty Houston, the victorious twirler, had a fine day as he collected three sharp singles out of four times at bat. Mudry and Costa each garnered a homer for the winners while Sonnenberg, who caught for the Headquarters, did the Ruthian act for the losers to make up a trio of circuit clouts, seen for the first time this season in any single game.

The winners accounted for two runs in each one of the first three innings and put up three in the fourth and fifth frames.

"Casanova" Wells, who started off for the "Orphans," walked off the mound in the middle of the second canto and decided that he was through with the game.

The Women's Favorite

THERE is nothing so refreshing and pleasant as a tepid bath prepared with the addition of a few drops of Lanman & Kemp's Florida Water. It always brings a feeling of coolness and renewed vigor. I owe my success to the use of this exquisite lotion.

Whenever I am in a hurry, a quick application with a sponge helps me wonderfully. It makes it easy to get ready in time and things seem to look better on me. It is my constant companion.

It has been the idol of women of good taste throughout the world for more than a century.

IMPARTIAL NOT NEUTRAL

THE BORDER FIGHT

Out of the welter of fantastic reports concerning the fighting along the Khalka River, the boundary between Manchoukuo and Outer Mongolia, a number of comparatively reliable statements offers the possibility of forming some sort of idea as to what is going on. That is chiefly due to the fact that Reuters have been able to send a man to the scene, with the result that a third party account of what is happening permits of some sort of check being kept over the allegations of the two contesting parties, the Japanese-Manchoukuo troops on the one hand, and the Soviet-Outer-Mongolian forces on the other. The Khalka River is generally regarded as the boundary between Outer Mongolia and Manchoukuo, and this view is all the more justifiable as it provides an easily defined, and recognized landmark, while at the same time the rich pasturages on either side of the river are equitably divided between the two countries. There can now be little doubt that the Mongols violated that boundary when the attractive Nomanhan district invited their attention as a rich feeding place for their herds. It is not to be believed that when the incident first started it amounted to anything more than a trespass by nomads in search of good pasturage, people who know nothing about international boundaries and move freely about the country in search of grazing grounds. The Japanese-Manchoukuo troops sought to eject them, and met with a resistance which they did not expect, since when both sides have been receiving reinforcements and a battle has been proceeding for some days within Manchoukuo territory. The latest reports suggest that the Soviet-Outer-Mongolian forces have not yet been driven from the Nomanhan hill, but are still clinging desperately to the western slopes despite the strenuous endeavours of their enemies to eject them. On a somewhat smaller hill, the Noro Hill and in the Changchingmiao area fighting has also been proceeding, and though there are reports that the Japanese have succeeded in surrounding the Soviet-Mongols on Noro, there is also evidence that the latter forces are still being able to send reinforcements across the Khalka River at night.

There is a striking similarity between what is going on along the Manchoukuo-Outer-Mongolian border, and what occurred last year when the Japanese and Russians clash at Changkaofeng. It will be remembered that the Russians moved to the hill, which they claimed was within their territory, and which they had visited every summer, and were attacked by the Japanese. As the result of considerable fighting the Russians were ejected from the hill for a time, but when hostilities come to an end they were still in possession. In both instances the Japanese were met by fairly adequately equipped, and properly led troops with the result that they have been experiencing a type of fighting which they have not had to encounter in other parts of Asia, and it is apparent that a very grim struggle is being waged for possession of Nomanhan hill, and adjacent areas. When all allowances are made for exaggerations on both sides, honours appear up to the present to be just about even, with the Soviet-Outer-Mongols not yet ejected from Manchoukuo territory. Latest Japanese reports are to the effect that the Soviet is moving up reinforcements to the extent of 60,000 troops which may or may not be correct, though probability is lent to the allegation by reason of Soviet commitments to Outer Mongolia. If, however, that does prove to be the case, the Japanese-Manchoukuo forces are likely to be similarly strengthened, and while even then it may be possible to localize the fighting, the possibility of one side or the other suffering a severe defeat may lead to even larger numbers being employed with all the greater danger of the incident assuming the gravest dimensions. That would obviously not be what the Japanese would desire at such a juncture as this. Heavily committed as she is in China, Japan may have sufficient troops to engage in what might turn out to be a full dress war with Russia, but it is quite obviously a venture which she would not like to be dragged into. Outer Mongolia has always attracted Japanese attention as the area from which the Russian flank in Eastern Siberia might be seriously threatened in the event of another Russo-Japanese war, but attractive as it may be from a strategical point of view this is not the time to embark upon a war the successful outcome of which is the only means by which Japan can satisfy her ambitions in this respect.

The fact, that, from a diplomatic point of view, relations between Japan and the Soviet do not appear to have worsened as a result of the fighting, suggests that both sides are determined to go great lengths to ensure that the struggle shall be localized and treated as a trifling incident, though it will probably not prove so easy of settlement as the Changkaofeng affair. There the issue was plainly one between Japan and Russia. In this instance the situation is complicated by the inclusion of the Mongols as a party on the Russian side and the Manchoukuoans with the Japanese, and while Japan may be able to ignore Manchoukuo in whatever settlement may be sought, it is by no means quite so sure that the Mongols will prove as amenable. Restriction of the fighting to that portion of the Mongol-Manchoukuo border lying between Buir Nor and the Hingan Mountains may very well prevent the struggle developing on a large scale, but there is still a very considerable length of boundary between the two countries which has not yet been involved. It may be if either side seeks to create counter-diversions for the purpose of relieving immediate pressures, in which event the boundary stretching from the western shores of Buir Nor to the Siberian border might become affected. This would have the effect of involving such large bodies of men that something in the nature of major hostilities would eventuate. It is by no means sure that either side desires such an extension, and the probabilities seem to be that if, and when the Japanese succeed in driving the invaders back across the Khalka River they will be content after that to make such arrangements as will prevent violation of the boundaries. The theory that this present incident has been precipitated by the Soviet for the purpose of assisting China is somewhat obscure. Unless something arose which necessitated the transfer of large bodies of Japanese troops from China, it is clear that whatever happens in the north can have no appreciable effect upon China's fortunes.

Tsingtao Demonstration

The delayed report concerning the demonstrations at Tsingtao on June 23, which was published in Saturday's issue of the "North-China Daily News" is remarkable for two features, the first being with regard to the manner in which the demonstration was organized, and the second was the very patent disapproval of naval and civilian Japanese of the whole business. Adult demonstrators it is reported were paid 30 cents for their trouble, school children five cents each, Chinese shops were ordered to send one representative each under threat of a fine, while representatives of the White Russian Anti-Communist Association were also ordered to attend, which they are reported to have done very shamefacedly. Japanese members of various firms were to be seen tearing down anti-British posters as quickly as they were pasted up on their premises, the Yokohama Specie Bank refused to permit any posters to be stuck on its walls, while even individual Japanese shopkeepers acted similarly until they were ordered to refrain from doing so. Not only that, when the Japanese Admiral returned Rear-Admiral Murray's call at the British Consulate-General, and saw the posters affixed to that building he expressed to the Consul-General and the Rear-Admiral his strong disapproval of the measures taken that day by the Japanese military and apologized for them. It is, perhaps, as well that at all times a sharp differentiation should be made between the Japanese Navy, Army and civilians. The story of Japanese naval behaviour during the whole of the "China Incident" contrasts favourably with that of the Japanese Army, while it is a notorious fact that there is a very large body of Japanese civilian opinion which disapproves of much of what is being done in China, especially vis-à-vis of third party neutrals. That point is emphasized by the story of the Tsingtao demonstration, and nothing but the keennest appreciation can be expressed of the correctness of the Japanese Admiral's actions on that occasion.

Henley Royal Regatta

This month the Royal Regatta held annually at Henley, the most renowned of English river regattas, attains its centenary. Apart from the charm of the river scene, which has changed surprisingly little during the course of years, the Henley Royal Regatta has another great claim to distinction. It retains the true atmosphere and spirit of healthy British sport. Nowadays too many sports have become primarily commercial affairs. The Royal Regatta is a notable exception. At Henley the best oarsmen meet among the most pleasant surroundings and under the fairest possible conditions. From all over the world crews come to compete for cups and medals which are of comparatively little intrinsic worth. The event is a pastime, the amateur spirit prevails, the spectator feels himself to be part of the scene. It was "at a meeting of the landed gentry of the neighbourhood and the principle townspeople of Henley-on-Thames," held on the March 26, 1839, that it was resolved to establish an annual regatta which, among its other useful results, "from its peculiar attractions would also be a source of amusement and gratification to the neighbourhood and the public in general." The first regatta was consequently held on the following June 14, and for one hundred years it has been repeated under the old conditions of gentle charm and ease. The course over which the various events are rowed is one mile and 550 yards, and the stretch of Thames covered by the teams is well-known to rowing men all over the world. Three British Dominions and fifteen foreign countries have sent competitors to Henley. The actual number of foreign entries has been 235, and of these 37—rather more than one in six—have been successful.

A COUNTRY DIARY

Weihaiwei, June 28.—I am a little late for spotting bird's nests this season, as this is most easily done when the birds are carrying nesting material, and so I must be content with the few nests in and around my garden. The handsome little Sparrow (so clean and bright in his plumage) who nests outside my bathroom window is as busy as ever, and makes so much noise chiding his family in the early morning I have to chase him away to get a little peace while shaving. The Red-rumped Swallows who have two nests in the back verandah are a story to themselves ....but best of all I like the little Meadow Bunting who sings his eternal song about "Pitsiwee" from my chimney-tops: his nest should be low down in a fir-tree just across the ravine, but as every sizeable fir-tree on the hillside has been torn down by the villagers for winter fuel (one of the results of the local improvement in government) I can only imagine he has chosen a different site this year: his song always begins with the syllables named above, and complains in a most mournful tone that the said Pitsiwee (presumably his wife) is "terribly sick today." I have never seen the pair together until a few days ago when I suddenly saw Mr. & Mrs. Meadow Bunting hopping round the lawn (Heaven spare the name for a patch of withered grass) : it was easy to distinguish the Master by his nice white—or near-white—collar, while Mrs. M.-B. looked almost as drab as a sparrow except for the white feathers tucked in at the sides of her tail....she looked somewhat bedraggled and presumably this was one of her first promenades after caring for the eggs and young. Mr. M.-B. acted like a perfect little gentleman, hopping round his wife looking to her safety, picking out various tit-bits for her consumption, but never taking a mouthful for himself. And later when the lady had returned home, Mr. M.-B. returned to my highest chimney and repeated this pretty little song, "Pitsiwee's much better today thank you"....at least that is exactly how it sounded to me.

Calm During the Storm

THERE was trouble in the saloon, way out in the Wild West, and guns were blazing away when a mild-looking little man walked right through the battle and learned negligently against the bar. He ordered a drink from the barman who was crouching behind the counter.

When the shooting died down, the proprietor congratulated him on his nerve.

"Oh, that's all right," he smiled, "I'm safe. I owe everybody in the place money!"

Habit

IN a mining village in pre-war days, when houses were very plentiful, a certain miner had a mania for moving from one house to another (writes a correspondent of the Leeds "Mercury"). He kept hens, and for convenience when removing he used to tie their legs together.

One day when he was having his dinner his wife ran into the house and said, Oh, Jack, tha'd better come and look at t'hens. They're all laid on their backs."

Jack looked through the window and said, "Nay, lass, nivver heed 'em. They've seen yon waggon coming up t'road, and they think we're bahn to flit again."

Bit About Souls

A PHILOSOPHER, with his characteristic sensitiveness to the finer emotions, proclaims his belief that "an artisan has more chances of finding happiness than an artist; a bank clerk, than a writer of books; a merchant, than a movie star."

It is the Agonized Soul, you see, for which he invites our pity—the Isolated Ego, which is so Lonely and so Different.

And how right he is!

One has distressing memories of a female movie star who once confided her misery. Those lovely, exquisitely designed tears! Those quivering lips! Those slim fingers twisting her heartless pearls!

"Why," she cried, "oh, why am I never a bridesmaid, and always the blushing bride?"

Let's Be Friends

THERE is a Sob Sister who writes a piece of uplift in one of the many papers we are obliged to read every day who is fraying our sensitive nerves, writes a British columnist.

We do not mean that we are upset by what she writes, because in our busy day, running our eye up and down leading articles and news from abroad, we seldom get time to read her work.

What distresses us is the title of her piece, which is "Let's Be Friends."

It may sound silly of us, but this daily appeal to our finer emotions seems too much like a personal message to be ignored. Sometimes we feel she is lonely and needs our friendship, and sometimes we imagine we have done her an injury and she wants to make it up and let bygones be bygones.

We would like to tell her we are the friends of all little columnists filling up their space, because we are sorry for them.

We are also the friend of all lonely women, lonely men, impoverished gentlewomen, impoverished gentlemen, orphans, doggies, pussies, and bunnies, because we are sorry for them, too.

In fact, if we told you of all the poor wee things we are sorry for, we should cry and cry and cry.

And then what would you think of us at our age?

* * *

Defence of Mousing

WE are always horrified when our cat Sally catches a mouse. Our motherly heart is wrung with pity when we hear its squeaks.

But when we asked our cat why she did it her explanation was so sensible that we wished we hadn't mentioned it.

She said:— "Cats are born to catch mice. It is their business in life. It has been estimated that if cats did not catch mice the world would be overrun with vermin. Moreover, if we failed in our obligation to society at least 50 per cent. of us would be destroyed as idle parasites.

"Personally, I am tired of catching mice. There is nothing new to learn. When you have caught one mouse you have caught them all. But, like you, I have children to bring up. It is our duty to teach them how to earn their keep and become useful citizens.

"Of course, you won't teach your children to catch mice. You will probably pay a lot of money to have them taught something which is no use to them or anybody else.

"At present I am only catching mice to instruct my children in a difficult technique learned in the hard school of experience. I think I can say without boasting that every kitten I send out into the world is a fully trained mouser.

"If you still object to it I will ask you to consider three things.

"Do you think it's worse than hunting foxes?

"Would you like your house full of mice?

"Don't you think it's time you stopped behaving like an old woman?"

Mongol Positions Fall Before Japanese

Smashing Attack Drives Invaders to West; 60,000 Soviet Troops Rushed Up; Russian Artillery Slows Japanese Advance

From Reuter's Special Correspondent at The Front, July 8.

IN a driving rain and very heavy thunderstorm, which drowned the noise of a surprise bombardment, Japanese troops last night crashed through the advanced Mongol positions, sweeping Outer Mongolian and Soviet troops to the west. Daybreak found the Japanese right flank firmly established a mile from Halahar, the centre column three miles from the city and the left flank, consisting of Manchoukuo and Inner Mongol forces with a stiffening of Japanese, closing in the arc, the cord of which was Halahar.

The extent of the Japanese victory leads to the belief that tonight will be seized as the occasion to complete a withdrawal of some 2,000 Mongol troops, which are still fighting desperately within this area, from which the only escape is one bridge. The bridge has been repeatedly bombed in daylight.

A Japanese military spokesman declared that the operations would cease once the Soviet and Outer Mongolian troops withdrew and the Japanese had reoccupied all the territory up to Halahar. The Japanese, he reiterated, did not intend to penetrate Mongol territory.

Meanwhile, Soviet artillery is maintaining accurate fire on the Japanese forces and is slowing up the final stages of the advance. The confluence of the Khorsten and Halahar rivers is now under the direct observation of the Japanese troops, which are advancing slowly in spite of the fire maintained by Soviet guns.

Considerable booty has been seized by the Japanese and 60 prisoners have passed through the advanced centres, with many more to come in. I interviewed two prisoners from groups of 20 men. They had been captured by a Japanese tank division. One was an infantrymen aged 20 and the other belonged to a Labour Corps attached to an artillery division and was 25 years old. Both had only participated in the battle for a very short time and had been taken prisoners after 24 hours at the front.

Soviet Participation

Sent to the front from Urga, unaware of his destination or reason for his departure, and completely uninformed of even the existence of hostilities, the Labour Corps man was conscripted in May and sent to Mongolia immediately after. He declared that he had witnessed no aerial combats and said that all infantry, artillery and tank detachments engaged in the battle were Soviet forces, while the cavalry was entirely composed of Mongols.

I saw white cotton draped coffins, bearing the remains of White Russians who had been killed in action against their own blood, on their way to Hailar for burial.

I later interviewed an aviation authority, who stated that the overwhelming air victories by the Japanese were principally due to the splendid morale of the Japanese pilots and to the poor manœuvring ability of Soviet planes. Although many "enemy" planes had been shot down in Manchoukuo territory, he added, these areas were being shelled and it was not worth risking lives to salvage the wreckage in order to prove to the hilt the published Japanese claims, which amount to the complete destruction of 400 machines, practically double the original strength of the Mongol Aviation Corps.

Air Battles Over Lake

I saw the wreckage of one plane which was stated to be an SB bomber. It was impossible, however, to confirm this owing to the smallness of the remnants. Questioned regarding the scene of most air-combats, the spokesman replied that they occurred most frequently over Lake Buir, which was inaccessible at the present moment by land owing to the very heavy rains and wildness of the country. Most combats, he said, took place at a height of between 12,000 to 15,000 feet.

The Japanese pilots, he added, were not interested in their individual victims during the heat of battle, but were contant to witness their torch-like downfall, without registering the exact point of the final flaming pyre of the Soviet pilots and machine-gunners. Some of the Soviet planes, he said, were of the JKB chaser type, which were capabe of a speed of between 350 to 490 kilometres an hour.

Forty Soviet planes yesterday raided two points in Manchoukuo territory, one about 40 kilometres from Halahar and the other about 60 kilometres from Halahar.

The bombs landed on fields and caused no damage. The raiders hastily made for home, not giving Japanese planes an opportunity to engage them.

These "bomb-and-run" raids are believed to have been made in an attempt to create a diversion in order to relieve retreating Soviet-Outer Mongol troops from Japanese bombing.—Reuter.

Struggle For Hill

The battle for Nomonhan continues with increasing intensity, with the hill the objective of both Japanese and Mongol attacks. The fighting is on a scale reminiscent of the struggle for Changkaofeng last summer. Aeroplanes, tanks and heavy artillery are taking part in a desperate struggle for the hill, which is situated 160 miles south-west of Hailar.

The crest of the hill remains no man's land, but the Mongols are grimly hanging on to the western ridges despite gruelling artillery and machine-gun fire. Crossing the Khalka river under a heavy Japanese artillery barrage, driblets of Mongolian forces are now rushing to reinforce their comrades holding out below Nomonhan, Noro height, a lower hillock near the loop of the Halahar river, is reported to have been surrounded by Japanese troops.

The fighting is developing into trench warfare, with both sides digging in. My impression is that the planned exploitation of the earlier Japanese successes has not come up to expectation owing to Mongol counter-attacks with force.

Although severely damaged by Japanese bombing, the Mongols are still able to use the bridges spanning the Khalka river under cover of night to reinforce some 4,000 of their comrades who are in danger of encirclement by Japanese forces operating from the north and other columns operating from the Halunarshan ter-

Battle Looms Over Neutrality Bill

Senate Foreign Relations Committee Split with One Undecided Vote

Washington, July 9.

Prospects of a bitter Congressional fight over the Administration's neutrality bill increased yesterday when a survey revealed the 23-man Senate Foreign Relations Committee was split 11-to-11, with only one Senator not yet decided on how he will vote.

The battle centres around the efforts of isolationists to include embargo provisions in the bill in contradiction of the neutrality programme outlined recently by the Secretary of State, Mr. Cordell Hull.

The Administration appeared to be unconcerned last night over the threats of isolationist Senators to stage a filibuster when the bill reaches the floor of the Senate. The Senate Foreign Relations Committee will begin consideration of the bill on Tuesday. The House of Representatives already has a proved bill in amended form, carrying embargo provisions.

Senator Guy M. Gillette, Democrat of Iowa, was the only Senate Foreign Relations Committee member who had not decided with which side he would vote on Tuesday.

"I seem to be in a strategic position," he said. He added that Mr. Hull and two other unnamed Cabinet members had conferred with him yesterday recording the neutrality bill.—United Press.

Decision on Tuesday

Washington, July 8.

The attempt last year by President Roosevelt to remove certain Senators recoiled today upon the Administration, when Mr. Cordell Hull, Secretary of State, and other high officials tried to persuade Senator Guy M. Gillette, Democrat from Iowa, and Senator Walter F. George, Democrat from Georgia, to vote for the Government in the Neutrality impasse.

It appears that of the 23 members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, 11 support the President's demands and the remainder are in opposition, except Senators George and Gillette, who are wavering and have declared that they are undecided how to vote.

The Committee meets on Tuesday to decide on the type of neutrality measure to place before the full Senate. The Administration is confident of winning before the Senate, but may be beaten in the Committee.—Reuter.

Britain Practices Air Raid Drill

Fifteen Counties Affected By "Black-Out"

London, July 9.

Fifteen counties in south-western England, covering 16,000 square miles or almost one third of the country, were in darkness from 11 p.m. last night until 4 a.m. today while Royal Air Force planes "raided" the area in the biggest "blackout" in British history.

For the first time since the Great War, lights along 250 miles of the Sussex and Kentish coastline were extinguished.

The "raid" and blackout were a dress rehearsal for the bigger blackout planned for August 10 when Greater London will be included in the "raid" area.

Police at Brighton Hove and elsewhere watched depots and inspected piers because of fears that the outlawed Irish Republican Army might take advantage of the blackout darkness to stage further terrorist attacks.

Policemen in darkened cities looked ghostly with their helmets and the arms of their cloaks coated with a phosphorescent paint which left faces and legs in complete darkness.

In complete darkness the rays from the helmets and cloaks are focussed with special filters, making the police visible to traffic but invisible from above.—United Press.

World Air Conference Opens in Berlin

Winter Flying Plans Most Important on Agenda

Berlin, July 9.

The timetable and fare conference of the International Air Traffic Association began in this city yesterday morning under the chairmanship of Herr Luz, Director of the Deutsche Lufthansa.

In addition to the German delegation, 48 representatives from 18 air transportation companies in 15 countries were present. The most important point on the programme was the question of the winter-flying schedule. Plans for the international transportation exhibition of 1940 in Cologne were also discussed.

This conference which is the second of the year was necessitated because the annual meeting of the association which will be held in New York in September necessitated a special earlier meeting for the consideration of the winter flying schedule.—Trans-Ocean.

Tokyo Army Heads Meet For Parleys

No "Patch-Up" Accord With Britain

Tokyo, July 9.

Two conferences were held at the Foreign Office here today as Japanese military and diplomatic authorities drew up their plan of action in the forthcoming Anglo-Japanese conversations.

A three-hour meeting took place between military and diplomatic representatives of the Japanese authorities in Tientsin. These were Major-Gen. Akira Muto, Col. Saburo Kawamura, Lieut.-Col. Kimihide Ohta on the military side and Mr. Sotomatsu Kato, minister-at-large, who recently visited Tientsin after serving as counsellor of the Japanese Embassy in Hsinking, and Mr. Hikozo Tanaka, senior Japanese consul in Tientsin.

The second meeting was convened at 4 o'clock this afternoon with Mr. Kato, Mr. Tanaka, and Mr. Sho Kurihara, Director of the Bureau of East Asiatic Affairs of the Gaimusho present. Formal consultations between the War and Foreign Offices will be held tomorrow.

Japanese authorities will insist that the question of a fundamental revision in the attitude of Britain toward the new situation in East Asia be taken up at the coming negotiations.

Army's Three Basic Points

Three basic points of the Japanese attitude toward the conference were decided yesterday at a meeting of Tientsin Army officers any Tokyo military authorities,

These are:

That the question of a fundamental change in the British attitude shall be considered, as well as local issues.

That a patch-up agreement by limiting the parleys to local issues will not be acceptable.

That any attempt to make the lifting of Tientsin isolation measures a prerequisite for opening the conference shall be positively rejected.

If the British authorities seek to patch up the dispute for the time being by limiting the negotiations to local questions, the Japanese authorities will not wish to continue the talks, military observers said.

They pointed out that the isolation of the British Concession in Tientsin was undertaken as an emergency measure in self-defence and that its cessation depends entirely on the views of the Japanese military authorities regarding the actual state of affairs in Tientsin. Therefore any attempt to have the blockade lifted before the opening of the conference will be rejected.—Domei.

Released Briton Sails

Tientsin, July 9.

The Japanese authorities have not, so far, presented charges against Mr. E. T. Griffiths, Second Officer of the Buttenfield & Swire steamer Yochow, who was released on Friday morning. Mr. Griffiths was arrested by the Japanese gendarmerie last Sunday evening for allegedly "using insulting language to Japanese soldiers."

The Japanese authorities have released the British authorities from their undertaking to detain Mr. Griffiths in Tientsin for a few days pending their investigation into the incident. He has now been given permission to sail in the Yochow.—Reuter.

"Most Destructive War In History"

"Sunday Times" on Result Of China Hostilities

London, July 9.

"Measured in terms of human life, the China war is one of the most destructive in history," the "Sunday Times" asserted in an analytical article today, when the Sino-Japanese hostilities are entering on their third long year.

"The Chinese 'scorched earth' policy, a repetition of what the Russians did to Napoleon at Moscow (in 1812), leaves the victors with little to show for their gains . . . ." the newspaper added.

"Apart from the carnage of the great battles and the massacres of civilians by air bombardments, millions must have died by famine, flood and pestilence. At present, alas, there is no peace in sight. The Chinese, for all their sufferings, are not subdued. Accustomed to see things in long perspective, they realize that time helps them.

Outlook For Japanese Worse

"The outlook for the Japanese grows steadily worse. Morally, they haven't a leg to stand on. They are undisguised aggressors and the excesses committed by their soldiery have made them everybody's enemy in China. The more battles they win, the greater grow their entangling commitments. They can neither get on nor get out.

"Small wonder if their hotheads, in desperation, try to cover up this failure by widening the conflict and trying to vent on the British or other foreigners, the mortification for which their own acts are solely accountable."—Havas.

German-Rumanian Trade Pact Hitch

Employment of German Farm Experts Declined

Bucharest, July 9

The economic section of the German Foreign Office, which has been here discussing the question of an economic treaty between Rumania and Germany, is returning to Berlin to obtain further instructions.

Contracts were signed recently for an exchange of Rumanian cattle and pigs for German equipment, such as tractors.

The German negotiators, however, wish to send German mechanics to instruct Rumanian farmers in the use of the equipment but the Rumanian authorities oppose the suggestion and prefer the employment of Rumanians.—Reuter.

New British Fleet in Water In Next Few Months

Correspondent Describes Navy's Huge Building Programme; Premier Praises Royal Air Force

SPECIAL TO THE "N.C.D.N."

London, July 9.

THE Navy's enormous shipbuilding programme is being further accelerated and, as a result, practically a whole fleet will put to water within the next few months, according to the Naval correspondent of the "Daily Telegraph." Next week, he adds, a new world record will be established by the launching of three cruisers in two days: the Nigeria on the Tyne and the Dido at Firkenhead on July 18, and the Mauritius on the Tyne on July 19.

The Nigeria and the Mauritius belong to the new 8,000-ton Fiji class, mounting six-inch guns, while the Dido is the first of a new class of 5,500-ton ships, also armed with six-inch guns.

The next few months will see the launching of the 35,000-ton battleships Duke of York and Beatty, both mounting ten 14-inch guns, and the 23,000-ton aircraft-carriers Victorious and Formidable. Four more cruisers are due for launching in the near future, together with a number of destroyers and submarines.

It is predicted that this summer would mark the peak of naval building, but the industry has been found so well able to meet the demands upon it that further acceleration is still being found possible.

Best Air Force In World

Reference to the British leaning towards understatement was made by Mr. Neville Chamberlain, the Prime Minister, in speaking at the opening of Birmingham's new airport at Elmdon yesterday by the Duchess of Kent.

"I believe," he declared, "that our air force is in many ways the finest in the world, and I warn you that Sir Kingsley Wood (Secretary of State for Air) does not tell you all his secrets. You may be quite sure," the Prime Minister added, "that whatever he tells you has a great deal more behind it."

Earlier, he recalled the success of the royal tour of the North American continent. "It is perhaps too soon as yet to estimate all the effects that this visit may have. But," he added. "I am quite certain that Their Majesties have made a most valuable contribution both to the unity of the Empire and to the friendship between ourselves and the American people."

In conclusion, the Premier said he was sure that when the present period of tension came to an end, civil aviation would know an unprecedented era of development and prosperity.

Sir Kingsley Wood indicated that a Royal Air Force reserve squadron had been allocated to the new airport, and declared that this was a reminder of the critical times in which they lived.

As part of the day's celebrations the Birmingham Corporation gave an aviation dinner last night. One of the speakers was the Director-General of Civil Aviation, Lieutenant-Colonel Sir Francis Shelmerdine, who said that civil aviation was faced with many difficulties, mainly due to the increased speed of rearmament.

Aerodromes for R.A.F. Reserve

Civil aviation, he declared, was short of aircraft and funds, but they could be proud of the part they had played in the rearmament programme. They had over 40 licensed aerodromes, and many others. Every one of them was being used, or would shortly be used, for purposes of the R.A.F. volunteer reserve.

The facilities civil aviation had been able to provide had made possible the vast increases in the number of pilots which had recently taken place.

Air Vice Marshal T. L. Leigh-Mallory said that today they realized the enormous debt they owed to industrial centres like Birmingham, and the effort which had been made in recent months to provide essential equipment. Notable strides had been made, and the gaps in Britain's defence of last Autumn had, for the main part, been filled in.

He thought that the British defence system would gravely shake the morale of any attacking air force, so much so that, after the first attempt, the full volume of attack would be reduced to a small trickle.

During the last 18 months, the Air Vice Marshal added, the three services had been forging a shield of defence which was immensely strong, and its very strength would mean that it would never have to be put into operation.—Reuter.

France and Britain United in Task of Ensuring World Security

French Foreign Minister Says Friendship is Based On Realistic Foundation of Co-operation

London, July 9.

"France and Great Britain have not only the duty of maintaining the integrity and independence of their empires, they have also to maintain in the world a certain degree of security" M. Georges Bonnet, French Foreign Minister, declared in an exclusive interview with the "Sunday Times."

Dealing with Franco-British relations, M. Bonnet said: "Relations between both countries could not be better than they are today. For years, these relations have been placed upon a friendly basis but, within the last year especially, our friendship became established on the realistic foundation of close co-operation in all spheres, political, military and economical. One can fairly say that the two nations have now become complementary."

Turning to the situation in Europe and the present political tension, the Minister pursued: "It is intolerable that peoples should experience every day fears for the security of their frontiers. It is intolerable that they should awake every morning in fear of violence and war. The efforts French and British diplomacies are pursuing have no other object than to maintain the security of the various nations and to ensure peace."

Questioned by the interviewer on the prospects of the negotiations at present going on in Moscow, M. Bonnet declared:

"We are neglecting no effort in order that these negotiations arrive at a favourable result. We hope that it will be possible to bring these conversations to a successful conclusion."

As regards the French attitude towards Poland, M. Bonnet said: "It is sufficient to recall M. Daladier's speech of April 14 and my own declaration on June 9 before the Franco-Polish Parliamentary group, to understand our position which is perfectly clear: France and Poland guarantee each other immediately and directly against any menace, direct or indirect, which could harm their vital interests. Poland knows she can count not only on her own proverbial heroism, but also on the support without reserve both of Great Britain and France in case of an attempt against her independence or her rights."—Havas.

Secret Zone At Danzig Investigated

Nazi Military Activity In "Playground"

SPECIAL TO THE "N.C.D.N."

Danzig, July 9.

The forbidden zone of Bischofsberg, which is a hill dominating Danzig, was visited by Reuter's correspondent today to test the statement of the local Nazi press that children's playgrounds are being built there. As the correspondent ascended the slope, the winding ribbon of road was frequently obscured by a cloud of dust thrown by a convoy of East Prussian military lorries en route to the summit.

The paths leading to the summit were guarded by tall, young members of the Heimwehr, or local defence corps, and the summit was enclosed in a triple barrier of barbed wire. Through chinks in a hastily-erected barricade of tree branches, the correspondent caught a climpse of anti-aircraft guns assembled in position.

Guns, Kitchens, Barracks

Subsequently two guards, after confiscating his camera, led the correspondent to a guard house, where a band of workers, under armed guards, was putting the finishing touches to red-tiled barracks. In the open space, the correspondent counted over 50 new military lorries marked with East Prussian registration plates. Field kitchens were seen, half hidden by trees, and beside them were what looked like gun limbers, covered with tarpaulin.

Reuter explained that he had come to see the children's playgrounds which were being constructed. The lieutenant in charge of the guard room did not try to hide his smile. He said: "Quite right, so we are."

Asked if hundreds of men in uniform and automatic rifles would use the playground, the Lieutenant replied: "That depends on the future, but I hope not."—Reuter.

Poland Will Intervene

Berlin, July 9.

Poland is determined to intervene in Danzig if she believes that at some future date her rights will be prejudiced or that Germany is preparing to annex the Free City, informed Polish circles said here last night.

"We know the point of German provocation beyond which we must act," one Polish spokesman said. "We will never permit our vital rights to be strangled nor will we permit Germany to annex Danzig."—United Press.

Military Alliance

London, July 9.

Britain and Poland are expected to sign a formal military alliance this week, putting into writing the guarantees the British Prime Minister, Mr. Neville Chamberlain, has made verbally on several recent occasions, it was understood last night.

Originally, it was understood, the two governments had decided to await the conclusion of a triple military alliance involving Britain, France and Russia. Because of the apparent deadlock in these negotiations, however, Britain and Poland now are working toward the signing of a formal alliance in the near future, it was said.—United Press.

New Warnings

Paris, July 9.

Britain and France will deliver new warnings to Chancellor Adolf Hitler this week to keep his hands off the Danzig Free City or be prepared to fight Poland and her guarantors, France and England, and her ally, Rumania.

The French Foreign Minister, M. Georges Bonnet, will deliver the first warning when he speaks today. Britain's warning will be sounded in the House of Commons tomorrow by the Prime Minister, Mr. Neville Chamberlain.

Meanwhile, however, the French Foreign Office suggested last night that tension over the Danzig question was becoming less by the hour. Berlin is expected to turn its attention increasingly to the Balkans, Yugoslavia and Bulgaria in an effort to counter the Democracies' position in Turkey.

The French Premier, M. Edouard Daladier, and the Foreign Minister are absent from the capital for the week-end and are not expected to return until Tuesday, a practical demonstration of cool nerves. The Council of Ministers will meet on Tuesday and M. Bonnet then will report on latest developments in negotiations aimed at bringing Russia into the Anglo-French anti-aggression front.

M. Daladier flew to Britany to spend Sunday while M. Bonnet went to Toulouse where he is presiding at celebrations connected with the anniversary of the revolution. He will deliver a speech today in which France's foreign policy will be reviewed.—United Press.

Italy's Complete Support

Rome, July 9.

Italy's complete support of Germany in the Danzig crisis was pledged here yesterday in the government-controlled "Relazioni International."

"Since London and Paris have decided to make Danzig the apex of their anti-totalitarian policy," the periodical said, "it is best to make it known unequivocally that the Italian people are absolutely solid behind Germany as always.

"Germany is determined that there shall be a German solution to the Danzig question. As at the time of the Czech crisis, if a decisive moment comes at Danzig with the formation of two fronts, let everyone know that the decision of the Italian people has already been taken."—United Press.

Wang Ching-wei Makes Another Appeal for Peace

Broadcasts Speech Denouncing Gen. Chiang and Urging Negotiations with Japan to End War

ACCUSING General Chiang Kai-shek of leading China to destruction at the bidding of the Communists, and further expounding his own views on Sino-Japanese peace, Mr. Wang Ching-wei, the ousted Kuomintang leader who is mentioned as the possible head of the new Federal Government for China, issued another lengthy statement last night. It was distributed through various Chinese news agencies and was broadcast by Mr. Wang over the radio, first in Mandarin and afterwards in Cantonese, indicating that Mr. Wang has returned to Shanghai. It was reported last night that elaborate arrangements have been made with local Chinese newspapers and news agencies for a campaign to convey his political views over wide field.

In his statement, Mr. Wang Ching-wei gave a historical survey of events following the death of Dr. Sun Yat-sen and observed the Tsinan incident started the deterioration of Sino-Japanese relations when China should have endeavoured to restore conditions to normal.

When he was Foreign Minister he propounded the idea that China should resist on the one hand and negotiate on the other—his purpose being to placate the opinion of those who opposed direct negotiation. At that time, he believed General Chiang Kai-shek shared his views but after four years of effort he found he was mistaken and the situation grew worse. When he left Chungking last December he made his statement regarding peace proposals.

Agrees With Prince Konoye

"My proposals for peace are in agreement with the statement made by Prince Konoye of Japan. This is because I am still convinced that the enmity towards Japan should be dispelled rather than aggravated. After fighting for 1½ years, the power of Japan and the will of the Chinese people have been well demonstrated. Since Japan has already stated that she has no territorial designs upon China and has even extended her hand in quest of co-operation with joint objectives in view, why cannot China also extend her hand to bring this dispute to end like a quarrel between brothers, who embraced themselves, crying, after a fight?

"Prince Konoye's statement was based upon established Japanese principles, which were put by him into an orderly fashion and fully explained as to points that China entertains doubts. For instance, regarding anti-Communism, because China fears that it will interfere with military and domestic affairs, he has explained by taking the Japanese-German-Italian anti-Communist Pact as representing the spirit in which a Sino-Japanese anti-Communist pact could be negotiated.

"As to economic co-operation, because China feels that the political situation is not yet settled, he explained that Japan undertook to observe Chinese sovereignty and independence and her administrative integrity. He also said that Japan did not intend to monopolize China economically or did she seek to limit the interests of third Powers".

Mr. Wang took exception to alleged claims in the territory under the control of Gen. Chiang that Japan was using her entire strength to destroy China, with the three Konoye principles as a screen.

Only Two Courses

This argument, the former Deputy Executive of the Kuomintang said, was fallacious because.

1. If Japan intended to destroy China all she had to do was to continue fighting

2. The Konoye principles were not new, having been proposed several years ago.

3. China and Japan have a mutual goal.

4. Sino-Japanese relations deteriorated because of a vicious circle of mutual recriminations.

In conclusion Mr. Wang said: "I feel that there are two courses open to us today. One is to follow Gen. Chiang with his cry of resistance to the end. But his present forces are insufficient to resist Japan as well as opposing the Communists. Under present circumstances, even if he does not wish to follow the lead of the Communists, he will find it impossible. If we follow Gen. Chiang along this course, we shall sacrifice the entire nation and people for the sake of the Communists.

"Another course is to revive the teachings of the late Dr. Sun and to reinforce them with the realization that enmity should be dispelled and not fostered. We should try hard to treat Japan as a friend.

"First we shall restore Sino-Japanese peace.

"Second, we shall establish lasting peace in East Asia.

"Of the two courses open to us, one will destroy China and the Chinese race. The other will restore the prosperity of China and of East Asia. I have decided to follow the second route. I shall unite with persons of all parties and affiliations, as well as those without party ties but who are anxious for the fate of China, to march forward along this route."

Mr. Lloyd George in Caustic Mood

Bitter Attack on Government For Tientsin Attitude

Cornwall, July 9.

Mr. David Lloyd George, Britain's wartime Prime Minister, bitterly attacked the Chamberlain Government here yesterday in a campaign speech in which he said the Cabinet had lost its nerve.

Referring to the Tientsin crisis, he said Britain was becoming the laughing stock of Europe and America. "Our prestige has gone down, the League of Nations is gone, armaments are growing and everything has been mishandled because of a loss of nerve."

He was speaking on behalf of Mr. T. L. Horrabin, a candidate in Thursday's by-election.—United Press.

French Arms Factories To Speed Up

Paris, July 9.

Acting under emergency powers, the French Government yesterday forbade any war materials factory to "interrupt or diminish" its production schedule during July, August and September. Government leaders intimated that French arms production was rapidly approaching its peak level.—United Press.

More Irish Bomb Threats

Pamphlets Reveal Further Warnings; Not Financed By "German Gold"

SPECIAL TO THE "N.C.D.N."

London, July 9.

All week-end leave for officers of Scotland Yard's special branch and for the authorities of the Home Office has been cancelled following the discovery of sensational pamphlets containing threats of further bomb outrages by the Irish Republican Army.

These pamphlets, which are said to have been brought secretly from Dublin, give a list of bomb outrages from February 3 and add: "The above list will be supplemented from time to time."

Scotland Yard is also busy investigating reports that the I.R.A. is planning outrages inside Dartmoor prison and other prisons. A special watch is being kept by police on public buildings and banks in London and other towns, which have been suggested as I.R.A. objectives.

A prisoner recently discharged from Dartmoor visited Scotland Yard last week and gave details of an alleged plot.

Similar reports have been received by the Yard from anonymous sources. These suggest that London and certain provincial centres will be subjected to further acts of terrorism.—Reuter.

100 I.R.A. Members Captured

London, July 9.

Threats of further bombings by the outlawed Irish Republican Army were contained in pamphlets secretly circulated here yesterday after a pirate Irish radio station had broadcast a warning that the I.R.A. would level every British city to the ground.

Scotland Yard possesses copies of the latest warnings contained in "a weekly communication's English edition bulletin issued in Dublin," Scotland Yard officials disclosed. The bulletin was said to have been marked No. 2, Vol. 1.

"Any act of aggression by England over and above the continuous aggression of her Army of occupation in six of our northern counties will be countered by surprising intensification of the operations of the Irish Republican Army's expeditionary force," the bulletin declared.

The publication lists the number of outrages in England from February to the end of June and says the list will be supplemented from time to time. Almost 100 members of the I.R.A. have been captured and three men were "lost through explosions," the bulletin reported.

"From an unavoidable accident, one English life was lost," the pamphlet added. "Otherwise we have had scrupulous regard for confining our campaign to the destruction of property and the dislocation of public services. The communal life of the English people will continue to be observed."

The bulletin denied that the outlawed I.R.A. was being financed by "German gold."—United Press.

Police Follow Courier

London, July 9.

Important documents concerning the plan of campaign of the Irish extremists in England have fallen into the hands of the police here, according to the "Evening Standard" yesterday which states that a man from Dublin, whose name and address were known to the police, had been watched for the past fortnight.

The individual in question who served as a courier of the Irish Republican Army, was followed to Glasgow, Manchester, Birmingham and London but succeeded in escaping arrest. It was surmised that he had returned to Ireland.

In one of the lodgings occupied by him, detectives discovered however various documents including two new plans of bomb outrages in London and the provinces. The "Evening Standard" says that these documents have been communicated to the Home Secretary, Sir Samuel Hoare.—Trans-Ocean.

Channel Tunnel Again Revived

French Committee Taking A Hand in Matter

Paris, July 9.

The French committee for the furthering of the scheme for a Channel tunnel decided unanimously on three points in connection with the proposed tunnel.

They were:—

1. Committees to provide information regarding the channel to be set up in those countries, such as Switzerland, Luxembourg and Belgium, which have shown an interest in the tunnel. This decision was taken because it is held that the tunnel would be a matter not of exclusive Franco-British interest but of world importance, since it would link up British railways with those of other countries.

2. That M. Gueritte, ex-president of the French Chamber of Commerce in London, who was present at the meeting, should form a group in London to coordinate information, and

3. That all information be collected to impress the British military authorities with the advantages of the tunnel from the strategic and commissariat points of view.—Reuter.

Development of China's South-West Minimized

Chinese Minister of Economics Says China Has Large War Stocks Stored for Emergencies

SPECIAL TO THE "N.C.D.N."

Chungking, July 9.

AN exclusive interview was granted by the Chinese Minister of Economic Affairs, Dr. Wong Wen-hao, to Mr. H. H. P. Melchers, Trans-Ocean's General Manager for the Far East. Asked how far China was still dependent on foreign imports, the Minister stated that this was still the case to a certain degree, especially as regards the import of war materials. The Chinese Government, however, had stored substantial quantities of war materials and was therefore able to carry on without further imports for a considerable time if necessary, particularly in view of the absence of large-scale fighting which had been a noticeable feature for some time.

As regards the economic and especially the industrial reconstruction of China's South-west which has been largely publicised, the Minister declared that this development was actually not so very important and significant as it had often been stated to be. In reality the south-western industries were fairly insignificant and should not be overrated. These industries, however, were not necessary to the Chinese life as China was still an overwhelmingly agricultural country and the population was little dependent on the industries. Therefore one should not attach too much importance to the South-western economic development.

The provinces still further west such as Ninghsia were practically untouched by the war. The provinces were rather poor and the population satisfied with what they grow themselves, neither importing nor exporting anything substantial. Traffic facilities were missing and the provinces were largely left alone. Merely Kansu had gained a certain importance for the transit to Soviet Russia.

Jewish Settlement Plan

Questioned regarding the recent plan for the settling of 100,000 emigrants in Yunnan province, the Minister thought the plan to be not very practical. He stated that it was not just the question of providing a certain sum of money for the immigrants which might benefit the Chinese economics but there were a multitude of other problems which were exceedingly difficult to settle. China also did not wish to antagonize other countries nor did she wish to take over difficult problems from these countries. This applied not only to Central Europe but also to Palestine from where many Jews wished to emigrate and come to China owing to unsatisfactory conditions. Anyhow, the whole matter was under consideration but so far nothing concrete had been arrived at.

The Minister admitted that the closure of Swatow, Wenchow and Foochow harbours was affecting the Chinese trade to a certain extent but not as much as was generally surmised since imports and exports via these ports had not reached large quantities lately. Burma and Indo-China still continued to be the chief lines of communication. The present transport facilities over these routes were still insufficient but the Chungking Government hoped that they would improve shortly, especially since Britain and France in their own interests were very keen to achieve these improvements.

The French Yunnan railway, for instance, had always been losing money but was making financial gains since the outbreak of the hostilities which explained the French interest to further expand the transport facilities.

Japan Looking to Future

Asked whether Japan was able to draw substantially on the resources of the occupied areas, the Minister stated that a short-term exploitation could have only small results. Japan, however, was looking to the future and hoped to get a complete economic hold of the resources through the medium of the North China Development Company as well as the Central China Development Company.

At the present time, at any rate, the Chinese Government was actually receiving considerable quantities of produce from the occupied areas through gaps in the Japanese lines, the Minister declared.

Asked whether the Japanese bombings materially affected the Chinese economics, Dr. Wong Wen-hao stated that the Chinese industries were far spread and anyhow not large so that the actual damage done was rather insignificant. He added that, as stated before, China was largely agricultural and therefore not very vulnerable to bombings.—Trans-Ocean.

Grenade Kills One, Wounds Three

Missile Hidden in Bamboo Pole Explodes During Repair Work

One Chinese farmer was killed and three other persons injured shortly before 5 p.m. yesterday, when, in an attempt to repair his hut, situated off Lane 134, Rue Paul Henry, a farmer sawed off a bambo pole and in doing so exploded a hand-grenade which had been hidden there.

The Reserve Unit of the French Police was immediately notified for, at the time the explosion occurred, people living in the vicinity were under the impression that an attempt on somebody's life had been made.

M. Jobez, Assistant Commissioner of the Concession Police, directed operations at the scene and detectives from Poste Foch are at present investigating the accident.

According to preliminary findings, it seems established that the missile was hidden inside the bamboo pole some months ago when intensive searches for arms and ammunition were carried out both in the Concession and the Settlement. It was also held possible that the grenade had belonged to a member of a gang of thugs who hid it there between hold-ups.

The place where the explosion occurred is situated some 70 yards inside a lane of modern residential buildings, amidst a row of small Chinese farm houses, and many foreigners and Chinese were on Rue Paul Henry at the time of the explosion, leisurely walking about in the shady thoroughfare.

When the explosion was heard, a mad scramble for cover ensued with the result that a few seconds later the street was completely cleared and all doors and gates to lanes were locked. The arrival of the Reserve Unit did nothing to appease the populace and rumours that a political assassination had occurred, spread rapidly with hundreds of pedestrians standing behind the police cordon in an attempt to see the injured persons being carried into the ambulance. Apart from the farmer who was killed, a young man, and two children were injured, although the last two, seated themselves in the police ambulance without assistance and seemed to suffer from minor wounds only.

Another hand grenade was discovered also in the Concession early yesterday morning in a Customs brokerage office at 39 Rue Petit but fortunately it did not explode. Mystery surrounds the discovery as when questioned last night the French police could not give details regarding the case admitting however, that a hand grenade was found there. Different reports were circulated last night as to how the missile was found. While one report stated that it was found in a bed having been thrown into the brokerage office through a window. Another report stated that it was place in front of the door of the office and discovered early in the morning by a watchman.

Japanese Land at Pootoo Island

Many Islands Searched For Chinese Troops

Pootoo, Buddhist sacred island east of Tinghai Island off Hangchow Bay, was among the many islands of the Tinghai group recently visited by Japanese naval landing parties operating in that area against Chinese troop remnants, a communique issued yesterday by the Japanese China Seas Fleet revealed. Kintan Island, Chanpaishan, Kinhoshan, Tiohwatao, Liuhungtao and Mamutao, were included among the points visited, the announcement said.

Peace Maintenance Commissions have been created in the towns of Tinghai and Chenkiamen, while naval patrols were maintaining order both on land and at sea in the Tinghai Island group, the communique asserted.

Attacks against the Tinghai and Taichow forts and barracks were continued on Friday by naval aircraft, while near Nanchang and Fengsin in Kiangsi, Navy aeroplanes co-operated with Japanese Army units in forestalling attacks by Chinese forces in that sector, the communique claimed.

44 Cities Form Anti-British Campaigns

Japanese Newspaper Reports Week's Demonstrations

Forty-four cities in Central China started anti-British, anti-Comintern and "national salvation" campaigns on the second anniversary of the China conflict, according to the "Shanghai Mainichi." Parades and mass meetings were held. Demonstrations will be continued for a week.

The movements were launched in the following cities: Shanghai, Nanhwei, Chwansha, Paoshan, Kating, Sungkiang, Chinshan, Wuhsing, Teching, Sungte, Changchow, Jukao, Haimen, Tungcheng, Wangkiang, Chingpu, Hangchow, Anking, Wuhu, Kashing, Pootung, Tsungming, Haining, Changshu, Wusih, Nanking, Chuyung, Lanyang, Tangtu, Wukiang, Kiangpu, Lishui, Liuho, Chintan, Yangchow, Chuhsien, Haiyen, Chaohsien and six others.

Wang Ching-wei Will Re-Issue Paper

Mouthpiece to Resume After A Year's Suspension

While reports are being circulated that Mr. Wang Ching-wei, the deported deputy chief of the Kuomintang, is advocating peace with Japan and that he may soon head a central administration in Nanking, the "Chun Hwa Jih Pao," usually considered by Chinese press circles as Mr. Wang's mouthpiece, will re-appear today in Shanghai after more than one year's suspension.

According to an announcement, the paper will maintain its "former spirit in rendering cultural services to the public." Before the start of the hostilities, it will be recalled, the paper was published in its plant in Honan Road and one of Mr. Wang's subordinates was responsible for its publication. He is Mr. Lin Peh-sen, an attempt on whose life was made in Hongkong some months ago by a lone assassin who beat him with a bunt article and is now serving a long prison term.

It will be interesting to read the paper and to know its attitude towards the present political developments in this country. It may clarify the situation now that six foreign-owned Chinese language newspapers have suspended publication. Some of them have done so because of official intervention but some for other reasons.

Most of these suspended papers have received threatening letters from a "patriotic" body warning them against publishing reports unfavourable to Mr. Wang. One of them the "Morning Leader" had the experience of being fired upon and bombed by alleged pro-Wang terrorists.

Apprentice Tries to Poison Self

A 29 year-old apprentice who had been employed in a glass-ware shop at 233 Tiendong Road, attempted to commit suicide shortly after 1 p.m. yesterday by swallowing a quantity of nitric acid. He was rushed to the Lester Hospital for Chinese in an emergency ambulance, and doctors were of the opinion that he would not live.

The apprentice, who had been mentally abnormal for the past three months, after he had heard that his house in his native village had been destroyed as a result of the hostilities, was recently informed by a doctor that he was suffering from T. B. and it was believed that he became weary of life as a result of this.

Special features of the construction incorporate air-conditioning and ventilation whilst among the amenities are such features as the Lido and open-air swimming pool. The Tjitjalengka will sail for Java, via ports, on Thursday July 13, at 2 p.m.

Dies After Visit to Barber Shop

Mystery Attaches to Death Of Six-Year-Old Girl

Mystery surrounds the sudden death of Miss Ti Feng-nyi, a six-year old girl who died in hospital yesterday after she had accompanied her mother Mrs. Ti, of 22 Mei Chuan Li, Jessfield Road to a Chinese barber shop in Bubbling Well Road.

While Chinese evening reports stated that the girl was hurt in the barber shop owing to the alleged carelessness on the part of a barber in handling an electric permanent wave machine and died later in hospital, the Sinza Police investigating the case completely denied the knowledge of electrocution as was suggested by the reports. It was stated that the girl had died but there was no connection between her death and the barber shop or electricity.

New Swatow Mayor

According to a Chinese report published yesterday Mr. Su Shih-wen, general secretary of the Greater Shanghai City Government and former mayor of the defunct Ta Tao City Government in Pootung, may be appointed Mayor of Swatow. Mr. Su is stated to have been busily preparing for his trip to Swatow, Mayor Fu Hsiao-en is reported to be inviting a certain well known Chinese to fill Mr. Su's post.

Memorial Service for Poison Victims

High Officials Present at Tokyo Ceremony

Memorial services were held at the Aoyama Cemetery, Tokyo, on Saturday afternoon under the auspices of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs for the late Mr. Tamakichi Miyashita and Mr. Minosaku Funayama, Chancellors of the Japanese Consulate-General at Nanking, who died after drinking poisoned wine at a banquet there.

Among those present were Mrs. Fusa Miyashita and Mrs. Mitsu Funayama, widows of the two victims; Mr. Hachiro Arita, Minister of Foreign Affairs, and Mr. Renzo Sawada, Vice-Minister of Foreign Affairs, who was chairman of the committee in charge of the services.

Fourth Marines Church

A large crowd, if not one of the largest, considering the summer season, attended the Fourth Marines Church and concert at the Metropol Theatre yesterday morning. Chaplain Marken preached on the theme, "The Unavoidable," undoubtedly, one of the best sermons ever heard at the Metropol. The divine services were opened by the Fourth Marine Band playing the Prelude "Lord We Come Before Thee" by Hastings, and for the offertory, Braga's "Angel's Serenade."

As a special offering for the mornings service, four members of the Marine Band rendered Sankey's "Summer Showers" in the form of a trumpet quartet.

As a special feature of the concert which followed the Services, the Marine Band under the very able direction of Bandmaster L. E. Giffin, rendered the Overture, "Rosamunde," by Schubert. In the numbers to follow, Lincke's Serenade "Amina" from "Serenata Egyptienne," and the Selection "Sweethearts" by Herbert, were presented. Concluding this excellent programme of concert music, the Marine Band played the "Marines' Hymn" and the American National Anthem.

Japanese Prisoners Give Concert

Unusual Function Reported From Kwangsi; 4 Countries On Platform

It may sound fantastic to many that amid probably the most war-minded people in China, natives of Kwangsi province, an entertainment can be happily held jointly by representatives from the four peoples in east Asia namely, Chinese, Koreans, Japanese, and Formosans but that actually took place in Kweilin on June 23 when such a meeting was held with great success. More than 20 former Japanese officers and soldiers, who bear no appearance of war prisoners, spoke at the meeting against their militarists and participated in the amusement programme that followed.

According to a Chinese correspondent, the meeting was held under the auspices of the "Korean Righteousness and Bravery Corps" which is probably a revolutionary organization in that country. The chief purpose of that meeting is stated to be extending welcome to those "oppressed" Japanese people who have been forced to fight the Chinese. It is unprecedented and the Lo Chuan Club (considered to be Kweilin's palace), where the entertainment was held, attracted so big a capacity crowd that several windows of the club were broken by the natives who tried to get the first chance of looking at the Japanese participants.

Like Guests of Honour

The meeting place was fittingly decorated for the occasion, posters written in both the Japanese and Chinese languages being exhibited. Amid loud hand clapping, more than 20 Japanese war prisoners dressed in Chinese uniforms usually worn by the Kwangsi soldiers entered the meeting hall smilingly. Like guests of honour at ordinary social gatherings, they looked fine and had absolute freedom of movements. They did not show any sign of disappointment or humiliation because they felt satisfied with all the people with whom they came in contact daily, the correspondent states.

The programme began with a speech by Mr. Li Tai, representative of the Korean corps who extended hearty welcome to the Japanese "brethren." He is quoted as saying that they were all good subjects in Japan but that they were forced to come to China to fight, departing their beloved ones. Japanese militarists were said to be the enemies of not only the Chinese, Koreans, Formosans and also Japanese subjects themselves. He urged his audience to fight their common foe. Several Japanese representatives also made short speeches expressing the same feelings and their words are said to be most sincere. A representative of the Formosan Independence Party also made a long speech.

Following this, the Japanese participants sang Japanese songs and one of them later turned out to be an experienced soloist too. They have learned to speak Chinese quickly and to show their linguistic talent they sang the Chinese "Guerilla song." Harmonica music and plays featured the meeting also and they were contributed by other groups. The Japanese are said to have done all these at the meeting naturally just as if they were in their own country.

Japanese Employment Statistics

Jobs available at the employment bureau of the Social Welfare Department of the Japanese Residents' Corporation decreased, compared to applications, in June, the "Tairiku Shimpo" said.

Jobs available for men in June totalled 267, while 346 made applications and 169 were employed. On the other hand, of the 48 jobs offered for women only 29 applied for them. Ten were employed.

Most of the newly established firms have hired full staffs, the paper said.

Japanese Troops Rout Guerillas

Mountain Battle Fought in South-East Hupeh

Hankow, July 9.

Three Japanese detachments attacking from two directions routed about 1,000 guerillas in the mountains east of Kweikowshih, 20 kilometres north of Tungcheng in south-eastern Hupeh Province, according to a field dispatch reaching here yesterday.

Commanders of the Japanese units received information last Thursday that the guerillas were planning an attack on Tungcheng. The clash in the mountains lasted 40 minutes. The Chinese retreated eastward, leaving 48 killed.

Two other Japanese detachments completed a mopping-up drive against stragglers in the district southwest of Tungcheng. A guerilla band in the mountains south of Pehkang, 14 kilometres northwest of Tungcheng, was wiped out.—Domei.

Taiyuan, July 9.

Three Japanese detachments captured Tsinyuan in southern Shansi at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon, according to a field dispatch received here today. Occupation of the city brought to completion mopping-up operations against guerillas in the region. Guerillas had been operating around Hanhungchen and Kuotungchen, north of Tsinyuan.—Domei.

Nanchang, July 9.

About 300 Chinese troops left behind following the retreat of their unit were scattered by Japanese Army planes in a bombardment of the Kaoan area, west of Nanchang in northern Kiangsi.

A large number of horses were killed by bombs. Japanese commanders had received advance reports that Chinese troops in the region planned an attack on Japanese lines south of Nanchang. The Japanese forces launched a drive to wipe them out on Friday.—Domei.

Mr. Wallace to Meet Cotton Leaders

Final Export Subsidy Plans To Be Announced Soon

Washington, July 8.

Mr. Henry A. Wallace, Secretary of Agriculture, will confer with leaders of the cotton trade, probably next week, prior to announcing final plans to be made effective in connection with the Export Subsidy.

The purpose of the meetings, it is learned, will be to obtain the reaction of the trade to plans now tentatively drawn up. The principal point to be decided is whether the subsidy shall be flexible or at a flat rate.

Initial plans called for a flat rate, probably of two cents per pound, but later a proposal for a flexible rate was seriously considered.

Thus far, it has been decided to inaugurate the Subsidy Programme on August 1, and to confine it to the new crop, but later it may also be applied to loan cotton.—Reuter.

Singapore Ready for Air Attack

Anti-Aircraft Defences on Powerful Basis

Singapore, July 8.

Work on Britain's £20,000,000 stronghold is being rushed ahead. Commissioning of the Naval Base is believed to be virtually complete, new hangars and other accommodation at the Air Base and other R.A.F. aerodromes on Singapore island are rapidly being provided, and the anti-aircraft defences of the fortress are being greatly increased.

The anti-aircraft defences are now so strong as to be able to repel any sea-borne air attack, the authorities here confidently believe.

The biggest test of the anti-aircraft organisation yet held at Singapore proved what an advanced stage this aspect of defence has reached here. While troops of the Anti-Aircraft Brigade of the Singapore garrison manned fixed and semi-mobile anti-aircraft defences under wartime conditions for 38 hours continuously, "hostile" aircraft attempted to bomb Singapore town, the Naval Base and other vital points of the island. At night searchlights swept the skies, seeking "marauding" aircraft.

Royal Air Force and Straits Settlements Volunteer Air Force units also received useful training. High-level bombing attacks were carried out by night and high-level and dive bombing attacks by day.—Reuter.

H.M.S. Perth to Join Australian Navy

London, July 9.

The rechristened cruiser H.M.S. Perth, formerly H.M.S. Amphion, will sail this week to join the units of the Australian navy, it is learned here. The warship will proceed via New York and the Panama Canal.

Displacing 7,000 tons and with a cruising speed of 32.5 knots, H.M.S. Perth is armed with eight 6-inch guns. With her arrival in Australian waters, the navy of the Commonwealth will consist of six cruisers, one aircraft carrier, five destroyers, in addition to several smaller ships and escort vessels.—Trans-Ocean.

New Light Plane Record

Berlin, July 8.

Herman Illg, chief pilot of the Hirth Motor Works, today established a new international altitude record for Class C light aeroplanes when he piloted a Messerschmidt plane to a height of 9,125 meters. The record-breaking machine is powered by a single eight-cylinder air-cooled Hirth motor of 270 horse power.—Trans-Ocean.

Berlin Bourse

Berlin, July 8.

Contrary to the expectations business on the share market today was exceptionally brisk, investors placing buying orders the moment the bourse opened. Almost all sections of the market were affected by this increased activity. Only in special cases, however, did the business done assume large proportions but even the small buying orders, placed in considerable numbers, had a stimulating effect.

Considerable satisfaction was felt at the speech delivered by Reich Minister of Economics Walther Funk to representatives of the German press, the Minister declaring himself content with the result of his negotiations in Holland and expressing the confident belief that the economic relations between Germany and Holland would soon undergo a further expansion.

Mining shares improved by as much as 1¾, Potashes gained 1¼ and electrics went up 1¾.

The fixed interest securities market was hardly affected except as regards tax certificates II where supply was plentiful but only a few takers. Consequently the prices weakened. the June certificates reaching the peak at 95.80 while certificates I rose no higher than 99.15.—Trans-Ocean.

U.S. Commodities

Saturday's Closing Quotations

New York, July 8.

The cotton market early ruled steady, influenced by the steadiness of Liverpool and Bombay cables, combined with fair buying and covering. Later, however, the market declined on liquidation and profit taking brought out by the unwillingness of operators to carry new commitments over the weekend and lower southern advices. Final quotations showed losses ranging from 3 to 9 points.

The weakness of Winnipeg, together with the depressing effect of the large Canadian crop, influenced a further decline in Chicago wheat prices today. At the final bell, losses from ⅞ to 1⅛ cents were recorded.

London Money Market

London, July 8.

The turn of the half-year witnessed a return to normal conditions in the London Money Market during the past week, with the opinion prevailing that the market can look forward to an indefinite period of a growing floating debt.

This week's rate of Treasury bill allotment was in accordance with most expectations, and the sharp reduction in the amount alloted at the average rate of 13/16 per cent., compared with 27/32 per cent. last week, was explained by the probable large Government taxation receipts at the commencement of the second half of the year.—Reuter.

New York Cotton Market

New York, July 8.

Quiet and narrow conditions prevailed at the opening of the New York Cotton market this morning, with prices ruling from unchanged to 2 points down, compared with yesterday's final levels. The market ruled steady early in the session influenced by the steadiness of Liverpool and Bombay cables, combined with fair buying and covering.

Later, however, uncertainty over the Export Subsidy question, unwillingness of operators to carry new commitments over the week-end and lower southern advices, all combined to bring out liquidation and profit-taking. At the close the market had a somewhat easy appearance, with losses from 3 to 9 points recorded.—Reuter.

New York Stocks

Saturday's Closing Quotations

New York, July 8.

Trading on Wall Street today was a narrow and featureless affair, with the volume of business passing one of the lightest record for sometime. European news continued to be a factor in the market, despite good domestic business reports. However, there was no undue pressure in evidence, and the undertone of the market appears to be healthy. The volume of trading amounted to only 110,000 shares.—Reuter.

Dow-Jones Summary

By Courtesy of Swan, Culbertson & Fritz

Stock prices fluctuated narrowly today as trading declined sharply. Business news and the trade situation are generally regarded in a favourable light, the only deterrents being the foreign situation and domestic labour troubles.

Electricity Output in U.S.

New York, July 8.

Production of electricity by the electric light and power industry of the United States for the week ended July 1 totalled 2,390,000,000 kilowatt hours, according to the weekly statement of the Edison Electric Institute published today. This indicated a gain of 14.2 per cent. over the corresponding week last year, when the output totalled 2,015,000,000 kilowatt hours.

Electricity output during the previous week totalled 2,285,000,000 killowatt hours, showing an increase of 13.2 per cent. over the corresponding week of last year.—Reuter.

New York Stock Exchange Quiet

New York, July 8.

Trading on the New York Stock Exchange declined sharply today and dealings were the lightest since August 17. Prices changes were narrow for most shares although an occasional inactive or high priced issue showed a wide change.

Warner Brothers preferred gained three points. Minor gains and losses balanced steels while slightly lower motors salanced the utilities average gain. Rails were steady and coppers gained. Coppers, however, were quiet despite the advance of metal prices.

The business and trade situations were generally regarded as encouraging, but traders withheld commitments because of weekend considerations.

Wall Street hears that Childs should enjoy a profitable second quarter. Westinghouse first half bookings are about $25,000,000 above the corresponding period of 1938. General Motors is expected to pay about $3.50 per share this year.

Favourable market factors today included:

1. Strengthening of the copper price structure.
2. Chain stores and mail order houses report gains.
3. Evidence of a good level of consumer spending.
4. Steel operations will rise sharply next week.

Among the unfavourable factors were these:

1. The situation in the Orient.
2. Continued uncertainty over Danzig.
3. Domestic labour troubles.
4. The possibility that Congress will not adjourn this month.—United Press.

Control of Profits

Further indication of the Government's plans to acquire drastic control over foodstuffs and raw materials in the event of war was given by the Prime Minister in the House of Commons on June 12, states the "Financial News."

Asked what preparations the Government was making to prevent profiteering in national necessities in the event of a national emergency, Mr. Chamberlain said: "Plans are in active preparation for the control of the prices and distribution of essential foodstuffs. It is contemplated that these plans would be put into immediate operation at the outset of an emergency.

From the Outset

"Plans that are being prepared for the control of the main materials required by industry include provision to ensure that from the outset manufacturers using these materials do not increase the prices of necessities unjustifiably."

It was known before that the Government intended to control food prices and distribution at the outset of war. Last September, plans had been prepared for the issue of ration cards and for far-reaching control. The nucleus of the departmental control has already been set up.

Great War Model

Mr. Chamberlain's announcement about materials, however suggests that the Government is planning immediately to control the whole of the economic life in the event of war, producing straight away much the same type of control as was being exerted by the Ministry of Munitions towards the end of the Great War.

The statement suggests further that prices will be controlled at every stage in the attempt to prevent profiteering, and that the Government's anti-profiteering policy will be based primarily upon stopping big profits from being made rather than upon special taxation.

Bombay Cotton Market

Bombay, July 8.

After a considerable shake-out in the Bombay cotton market during the past week, the open interest in Broach, July/August, was estimated at 150,000 bales, which was much smaller than usual, in that the contract had almost a two months lease. Consequently, the small position in the contract was unusually sensitive, with small orders either way causing disproportionate fluctuations.

Export business proved to be rather better from all quarters, but was much under normal. The spot turnover was rather larger on shippers buying.

The rains received during the last few days have greatly improved the outlook.—Reuter.

FROM DAY TO DAY

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Parker sailed for Canada yesterday on home leave by the Empress of Japan.

Rear-Admiral Byrd has been ordered by President Roosevelt to start on another Antarctic Expedition in October.

The German Air Ministry has given orders that no planes are to fly over Berchestgaden, in order not to disturb Herr Hitler.

The usual Monday evening Bible Society half-hour over the Christian Broadcasting station XMHD will be taken by Dr. W. H. Tipton of the Baptist Mission. Time, 8.30 p.m. Subject: "Search the Scriptures."

On May 29 the Duke of Connaught has been Colonel of the Rifle Brigade for 59 years. He joined the Regiment 70 years ago next August 3. To honour this record the Regiment is to have new buttons, which will have on them the Duke's coronet and cipher.

Since 1934 Empire Air Day, which was held on May 20, has made a profit of £43,683 for the Royal Air Force Benevolent Fund. Each year sees an increase. It was only £2,500 in 1934, and over £16,000 last year. This year it should be much larger, with the greater public interest in all matters relating to our Air Force.

The London Zoo's famous gorilla "Moina" died on Friday night, having survived her partner "Mok" by about eighteen months. Moina was taken ill about a month ago and in spite of every care gradually wasted away, she was fourteen years old. These two gorillas were bought seven years ago from a French Officer in the Congo.

The Egyptian Foreign Minister, Yehia Pasha, accompanied by his Yugoslav colleague Dr. Cincar-Markovitch, arrived on Saturday at Bled and was received by Prince Regent Paul at Brdo Castle where a luncheon was afterwards given in his honour. Yehia Pasha will have conversations with Premier Dr. Zvetkovitch and the Minister of Commerce, Tomitch.

British owes the success of the Anglo-Turkish agreement largely to the brilliant diplomacy of Sir Hughe Knatchbull-Hugessen, who is the only British Ambassador with American blood in his veins. This was when, as Ambassador in China a year ago, he was machine-gunned in the back by Japanese airmen and his life saved by a blood transfusion from an American marine. Sir Hughe is an expert linguist, and has been our representative in Estonia, Persia, China, and Turkey.

An interesting little ceremony was observed on May 21, at the Tower of London, when a sheaf of white lilies, tied with light blue ribbon, will be laid on the floor of the Crown Jewel Room. The lilies represent the Eton arms and constitute the school's annual tribute to the memory of its founder, King Henry VI., murdered in the Tower on May 21, 1471. The ceremony dates only from 1923, when, after much research, it was taken as proved that it was on the stone slabs of the Jewel Chamber that the unfortunate monarch met his death at the hands, or by the orders, of Richard Duke of Gloucester, afterwards Richard III.

Climax to a romantic career in business comes to Mr. W. B. Neville, J.P., general manager of the London Co-operative Society, who preside over the Co-operatives' "Parliament" —the Co-operative Congress—at Margate this Whitsuntide. He started as a pit-pony boy, and has risen to be manager of the world's largest co-operative society. Mr. Neville, who is 55, was born at Eastwood, in Nottinghamshire. He left his work in the coal-mine to join the office staff of the Langley Mill Co-operative Society. His next move was to London, and during the war he organized food supplies. He was appointed to his present post with the London Co-operative Society in 1937.

The Admiralty's misfortune with its higher officials continues with the retirement of Sir Roger Backhouse, First Sea Lord. A few weeks ago the Third Lord, Sir Reginald Henderson, resigned for the same reason. The new First Lord, Admiral Sir Dudley Pound, is a modernist in naval strategy and a believer in big ships. One of his books, written before the war, is still a standard work on the subject. A typical admiral, bluff and breezy, he commanded the Colossus at the Battle of Jutland, where he showed great personal courage. In British Columbia he once saved a drowning stoker, and, when he commanded the Superb, personally rescued three men from a gas-filled hold.

The leader of the Jews in Palestine, Dr. Chaim Weizmann is a distinguished chemist, Russian by birth, who was formerly a professor at Manchester University. Early in the war, while he was still employed there, he made a discovery of the greatest importance to the Allies. The Ministry of Munitions were seriously concerned over the shortage of acetone, an essential ingredient in cordite, which in those days was made from wood. The timber used for this purpose had to be imported from America, and the quantity needed was so large that we could not afford the necessary tonnage. Dr. Weizmann solved the problem by obtaining the acetone from maize, and later from horse chestnuts.

The new M.P. for North Southwark, Mr. George Isaacs, is one of the best-known men in and about Fleet-street, and probably knows every newspaper office from the inside. He has been the real architect of the National Society of Operative Printers and Assistants, generally known as "Natsopa." That word "Assistants" implies much more than it says, for this union claims to enrol as members all workers in a newspaper office who are not members of any other union, from clerks to cleaners and sweepers. Mr. Isaacs has been a member of Parliament before for this constituency, in which he lives and works, and he has also been Mayor of Southwark. Since 1931 he has been a member of the General Council of the T.U.C. He is a Freeman and Liveryman of the City through the Stationers' and Newspaper Makers' Company, and is a born Londoner.

Count Ciano Sails For Spain

Italian Foreign Minister to See Gen. Franco; Spain's New Economic Policy

Rome, July 9.

Count Ciano, Italian Foreign Minister, embarks on a cruiser this morning en route to Spain.

The newspaper "Telegrafo" says that the visit will cement collaboration between the two countries in the economic, political and military fields, "with a view to very wide objectives." Count Ciano is expected to meet General Franco in Madrid.—Reuter.

Madrid, July 8.

In a speech delivered before the National Council of Falangists at Burgos, General Franco outlined the future economic policy of Spain.

The first and most urgent problem of national economy, he said, was to balance foreign trade which had always been adverse except during the four years of the great European War. Spain's future political economy must, above all, be directed towards cancelling this deficit in order to prevent the constant impoverishment of the country.

It was imperative to suppress all imports not indispensable for the life of the country and to increase exports, thus obtaining foreign currency instead of the more convenient and expensive system of receiving credit abroad.

Spain's motto must be to "produce and produce" and to manufacture articles which the world appreciated and which the State would help market abroad.—Reuter.

Military Pact Denied

Rome, July 9.

The press here today denied the rumours that Rome is preparing to sign a military pact or political alliance with Spain.

The denials were made in conjunction with the announcement of the departure for Spain of Count Ciano.

Opinion gathered from the papers was that "Fascist Italy and General Franco's Spain have the same ideology and an identity of interests, thus making any agreement on paper superfluous. The two nations, closely united, follow the same policy that of order in Europe."—Havas.

Germany's Western Fortifications

Details Revealed of Great Feat by Engineers

Berlin, July 9.

An article published by Lieut.-General Jacob, Inspector of the German fortresses, in the "Deutsches Militaer Wochenblatt", reveals hitherto closely guarded details concerning the German Wall in the West.

The number of concrete shelters, originally ordered by the Fuehrer to be 17,000, was ultimately increased to 22,000. In order to finish the fortifications belt which is 50 kilometres deep as soon as possible, at times more than 500,000 workers were employed.

Work was started on July 20, 1938, under Dr. Fritz Todt, Inspector General for German Roadbuilding with 35,000 men which number by October 6 had risen to 342,000. In addition, 100,000 men of the German Labour Corps and 90,000 men belonging to the Army engineering corps were employed. Simultaneously, numerous divisions of infantry and engineers were kept permanently manœuvring in order to test the efficiency of the fortifications under construction.

The wood used for the construction of the West Wall amounted to 695,000 cubic metres. Daily more than 8,000 railway lorries were busy transporting material to the building zone. Fifteen thousand motor trucks were used in connection with transport and 5,000 motor busses were needed daily to help bringing the workers to the different parts of the area under construction.

Using all dredgers available in Germany, many square miles were made impassable for hostile tanks by the creation of artificial obstacles and by increasing natural difficulties.—Trans-Ocean.

OBITUARY

Sir James George Owen

SPECIAL TO THE "N.C.D.N."

London, July 8.

The death occurred here today of Sir James George Owen, well-known editor and publisher and former Deputy Chairman of Reuters, Ltd. He was 70 years of age and is survived by his wife and one daughter.

He started his journalistic career in 1889 when he joined the "Western Morning News." In 1894, he was joint proprietor of the "Bideford Gazette." His next position was that of Editor and Managing Director of the "Western Daily Times."

He became Governor of the Royal Albert Memorial College and Library in 1905 and Sheriff of Exeter, 1910-11. Sir James Owen, in 1913, became Chairman of the Exeter Chamber of Commerce and was Mayor 1914 to 1919. In 1917, he became President of the United Billposters Association. He was made President of the Newspaper Society in 1922 and Deputy Chairman of Reuters, Ltd. in 1928.

In that year, he also assumed the Presidency of the British Poster Advertising Association. He was Managing Director of the "Devon and Exeter Gazette" in 1932.—Reuter.

M. Jean Tannery

Paris, July 8.

M. Jean Tannery, a prominent figure in French finance and Governor of the Bank of France in 1935, died today.

M. Tannery's appointment was regarded as the first step in the reform of the Bank's administration by bringing it more under the control of the Government. The appointment did not please the Popular Front, who considered him too close to the old régime, and he was succeeded by M. Labeyrie in 1936.—Reuter.

Mr. Frank Hazelbaker

Dillon, Mont., July 7.

Mr. Frank Hazelbaker, former Lieutenant-Governor of Montana, died today at his home here following a heart attack.—United Press

minal of the Hsinking-Halunarshan Railway, the southernmost point of the front.

I saw several cars of wounded today, evidence of the severity of the fighting, which is likely to be protracted in view of the stiffening of the Mongol forces by new Soviet units.

60,000 Soviet Troops

High Japanese military officers declare that 60,000 Soviet troops from the Baikal area are now quartered in zones behind the front. They discount reports that the Soviets plan to create diversions in other parts of the frontier to relieve the pressure.

The slowness of the progress of Japanese forces, after the earlier stages of the battle, is attributed to difficulties of communications and shortage of mechanised sections, which are now being reinforced. At the same time, the strength of the infantry is being increased.

Two outstanding features of the fighting are the accuracy of the Soviet artillery and the deadly bombing of Japanese planes.

The Japanese claim that, since the opening of the battle, they have destroyed 250 Mongol tanks and armoured cars, and captured approximately 60 Russian prisoners. But it is impossible to confirm these figures personally because of difficulties of transportation along the front.—Reuter.

250 Soviet Tanks Disabled

A Japanese Army Base, July 9.

About 250 Soviet tanks, two-thirds of the total number in action, have been disabled by Japanese shells in the fighting near the Khalka River on the western border of Manchoukuo, a Japanese Army officer declared here yesterday on his return from the front.

Japanese forces captured a Soviet bridge head position Friday night and put to rout Soviet and Outer Mongolian troops defending the place, the officer said. "Tanks are playing an important part in the present fighting," the officer said. "The Soviet Army has sent several tank brigades against us. To date we have disabled about 250 tanks, two-thirds of the total number in action. "We have been successful in fighting the tanks at close range. Eluding the enemy's fire, we get into positions for direct attack. The power of the anti-tank guns is a thing to marvel at. Fighting this way is like being on a shooting range.

"On July 3 when a Soviet tank brigade and a Japanese infantry unit clashed one Japanese anti-tank gun, firing 10 shells, disabled five tanks within 10 minutes. The tanks went up in flames immediately.

"The number of Soviet tanks disabled in a half day of fighting on July 3 is believed to be more than 150. "The tanks burn for three to four hours after being hit. The Hulunpeierh plain looked as if a great industrial plant had been set up. There was no wind on that day and the columns of smoke which went straight up for several hundred feet from the blazing tanks looked just like smoke from factory stacks.

Acts of Bravery

"I have just spoken of the bravery of the Japanese soldiers, but their speed in attacking is noteworthy also. They charge the tanks in trucks on which guns are mounted. If the trucks are demolished by enemy fire they remove the guns at once and keep on attacking. In one charge like this nine Soviet tanks were put out of operation.

"A Japanese soldier jumped on an armoured car and killed the men in it. He manned the car and drove it about in the thick of the fight, forgetting to raise a Rising Sun flag. His comrades induced him to put a flag on the car lest he should be shot while being mistaken for one of the enemy. "No matter how many tanks and armoured cars the Soviet forces may put in action they will be no match for the Japanese. "This brave spirit of the Japanese soldiers will enable them to overcome all opposition."—Domei.

New Tax Announced by Chungking

Excess Profits to Assist Government During War

Chungking, July 9.

Regulations governing a new tax, to be known as the Emergency Period Excess Profits Tax, were officially announced today by the Chinese Government. The regulations provide for payment of the new tax in addition to income tax.

All commercial and industrial businesses and enterprises, whether private or jointly financed by the Government and private interests, with a capital of above $2,000 and with profits above 20 per cent. of their capital, will have to pay the new tax. Profits from rentals or property above 15 per cent. of the property's value will be subject to payment of the new tax. The tax shall be considered a Central Government tax, and will be collected by the Income Tax Office.

Collection of the new tax will be retrospective from January 1 this year and will be payable annually or monthly, according to the nature of the profits.

The rate of payment depends on the percentage of profits in relation to the capital, as follows:—

Percentage of Profit On Capital	Percentage Payable In New Tax
20 to 25	10
25 to 30	15
30 to 40	20
40 to 50	30
50 to 60	40
Over 60 per cent	50

Moscow Parleys Resumed

Moscow, July 9.

Negotiations for a tripartite pact against aggression have been resumed here following the receipt of fresh instructions from London and Paris.

Last evening, the British and French Ambassadors, Sir William Seeds and M. Paul Naggiar, accompanied by Mr. William Strang, special envoy of the British Foreign Office, had a talk with M. Molotov, Soviet Foreign Commissar, lasting 2¾ hours. The Soviet Vice Foreign Commissar, M. Potemkin, was also present. Another meeting is expected shortly.—Reuter.

That lovable "magnificient brute," none other than Mr. Victor McLaglen was solely responsible for making "Pacific Liner," now showing at the Metropol Theatre, a fine entertainment. His inimicable facial expressions together with his comical manner of cursing and boastful roaring had the audience in laughter almost everytime he appeared on the screen, in which he stood head and shoulders above the rest of the cast.

As the doctor fighting the deadly cholera that had broken out on the ship, and a hysterical crew would have mutinied, had it not been for the capable handling of the whole matter by Crusher McKay (Victor McLaglen). Mr. Chester Morris is impressive, but only in a small way, compared to the former star. He is in turn supported by Miss Wendy Barrie as the ship's nurse. The picture startled the audience when it commenced with a genuine scene of the Shanghai Bund with passenger's leaving one of its jetties. Preceded by only a sports short and a comedy, "Pacific Liner" is well-worth its money in entertainment.—G.B.

Death Asked for Spanish Leader

Trial of Only Important Socialist Chief to Remain After Franco Victory

Madrid, July 8.

Cool, calm, while his life hung in the balance as prosecution and defence counsels pursued their legal battle, Julian Besteiro, noted Republican leader, stood on trial today for Socialist plottings and complicity in the Communist direction of the civil war.

He showed no sign of nerves, although old and in ill health, when the act of accusation was read out, charging him with playing a great role in the constitution of the Socialist Party, being responsible for the 1917 general strike, and carrying secret negotiations with British political leaders when he represented the Republican Government during King Georges coronation.

Former President of the Cortes and head of the Madrid Defence Council just before the end of the civil war, Senor Besteiro is the only important Socialist leader to have remained in Spain after the Nationalist victory. Today, while he was himself in the prisoner's box, he held the attention of the court martial as he made a profession of his political creed and the foreign policy that Spain should pursue.

He stated himself to be even more strongly anti-Communist than he was anti-Fascist. He urged Spain to be prudent in her foreign affairs. He said that in his opinion, Spanish foreign policy should be tempered mainly by close friendship with Portugal, her coastal neighbour.

Prosecutor, His Former Pupil

The Clerk of the Court then read documents disclosing under what conditions Senor Besteiro established contact with secret Phalangist elements in Madrid to prepare for the surrender of the Republican capital to Generalissimo Franco. The Court also heard how he planned to fight the nests of revolutionaries who were adding a new war to the civil war when the Communists rose up against the leaders who were negotiating for peace."

The prosecution then cross-examined the accused, and Senor Besteiro answered evasively several of the questions. The prosecutor, Colonel Acedo, a former pupil of the man now on trial, wound up his declaration with a fiery demand for the death sentence against his one-time master.

Counsel for the defence, Lieutenant Arenillas, however, replied to the accusations in recalling that Senor Besteiro had refused to encourage the people to fight and had rejected participation in the Republican Popular Front regime.

He emphasized his part in the surrender of Madrid, that the accused had accepted office at that time only because it was to conclude the war. "Senor Besteiro did not flee because he believed he had committed no crime," Lt. Arenillas concluded.

The judges, comprising three generals and four colonels, then retired to decide in secret session on their judgment, which will be announced only after approval by the higher authorities.—Havas.

Hongkong Man Invents Diving Bell

Local Architect Offers His Device to Admiralty

Hongkong, July 9.

The inventor of a diving bell approved for examination by the United States Naval authorities, and similar in construction to the one used in the rescue of the crew of the American submarine Squalus, is in Hongkong.

He is Mr. P.L.L. Biau, a well-known architect with offices both in Hongkong and Fort Bayard, who wishes to have his apparatus tested by the British Admiralty.

While admitting that his diving bell would have been ineffective in the case of the Thetis, owing to the steepness of the angle at which she was embedded in the sea floor, Mr. Biau stated that he was very surprised at the recent admission by the British and French Admiralties that they had no apparatus of this type. Though he has previously offered his invention, without success, to both France and Britain, Mr. Biau feels that every possible precaution for safeguarding men engaged in such perilous work as manning submarines should be investigated.

To this effect, he has again submitted details of his invention to the British Admiralty through the local Naval authorities.

Mr. Biau said he had invented his diving bell with the assistance of a colleague, Mr. R. C. Hill, and produced official correspondence between himself and Submarine Division XVII of the United States Navy. The correspondence shows that this system was approved for examination several years ago, but that, as another diving bell had been invented by the American Naval authorities themselves, Mr. Biau's invention was never tested.

"I am absolutely confident of the efficiency of my diving bell and I am very anxious to demonstrate its efficacy as soon as possible," he told Reuter.

Details of the Biau-Hill diving bell are contained in a publication issued by the Biau-Hill Submarine Salvage Company. The system has been patented throughout the world. —Reuter.

American Exports to Germany Decrease

50 Per Cent. Reduction in First Five Months

Washington, July 8.

American exports to the Reich were nearly halved during the first five months of this year as compared to the same period last year. Commerce Department statistics revealed that exports this year totalled $29,325,000 as against $43,280,000 in 1938.

Exports to Japan until May 31, this year, totalled $96,267,000.

During May alone, American exports to China increased to $5,016,000 as compared to $3,993,000 in May, last year.

Exports to Japan totalled $21,392,000 in May this year as compared to $18,068,000 last year. Imports from China rose from $3,210,000 to $4,006,000 and Japanese imports increased from $7,020,000 to $10,747,000.—Havas.

French Retaliation Against Italy in Press War

Paris Correspondent of "La Stampa" Ordered to Leave Following Expulsion of French Newsmen

Paris, July 8.

RETALIATION against Italian discriminatory treatment of French newsmen in Rome was decided upon by the French Government today, when it decreed the expulsion of Signor Petinato, anti-French Paris correspondent of the Turin "Stampa." This measure is taken especially as a reply to Rome's action in expelling M. Robert Guyon, who was the correspondent in Italy for "Le Journal," one of the "Big Five" in France's press world.

As a result of the Italian Government's persistent measures of expulsion of French newspapermen, only three French correspondents now remain permanently attached to French news organs' offices in Rome.

On the other hand, there are 23 Italian journalists, in addition to many assistants and secretaries, stationed here in Paris. Signor Petinato was one of this small colony, until he distinguished himself too many times by his strongly anti-French attitude.

Paper Banned From France

Italian press attacks against France have also resulted in restrictive action on the circulation of Signor Roberto Farinacci's "Regime Fascista," published in Cremona. This newspaper, often featuring rabidly anti-French articles, is now completely banned from France, for it advocated Italian residents in the French Republic to form "a fifth column and sabotage French national defence in case of war." For one year, this newspaper continued its assaults, in which Signor Farinacci apparently took personal pride.

In his last issue, he boasted of having "contributed to digging deeper than ever the chasm separating Fascist Italy from Jewish France."

The French Government, observers declared, attached only relative importance to anti-French campaigns in the Italian press. But nevertheless, there were certain limits that had to be observed.

Italy could hardly complain of French restrictive actions in the newspaper field, the observers added, because all but three French dailies have been banned from Italy.—Havas.

France Moves in Syrian Crisis

Constitution Suspended by Commissioner; Dissolution Of Chamber

Damascus, July 8.

"France wishes to leave no doubt about the permanence of her presence in the Levant, but she is no less faithful to the general and lasting objectives of Syria," M. Gabriel Puaux, French High Commissioner here, stated today in a broadcast to the nation.

Events moved swiftly following this morning's resignation of President Hachem bey Atassi, who alleged that the policy of France, Syria's mandatory power, was contradictory to the Franco-Syrian treaty of independence, (which has not as yet been ratified by the French Parliament).

In his radio broadcast, M. Puaux sought to explain the situation to the man-in-the-street. "An expectant attitude will be maintained for the present in political matters," he stated, "but this does not quell France's desire to negotiate a treaty with Syria."

He indicated that the temporary Council of Directors that he had selected to govern the land would have power to appoint civil officials and magistrates. It would also be able to pass decrees having the force of law, particularly in budgetary matters. And its sanction alone would give legislative quality to the decrees.

Council of Directors

The Council of Directors, now enjoying executive power in Syria, was chosen from the various ministerial departments of the Government. The head of the Home Ministry bureau is chairman. M. Puaux himself has taken under his control supreme executive power following the resignation of the Cabinet and the President.

He has suspended application of the Syrian Constitution in order to permit normal administration of the country under the present unusual conditions. He decided to dissolve the Chamber today, and the date of new elections has not as yet been set.

The situation reached its present stage only after President Hachem bey Atassi's resignation, the latter giving up his office because he alleged that French policy was contrary to the accord of independence "on the basis of which we accepted to come into power." He pointed out that all the Cabinets which held power during his mandate were convinced that fulfillment of this treaty could alone "give Syria the place she deserves."

The treaty on which these declarations were based was signed in Paris on September 9, 1936, but was not ratified by France. It would grant French recognition to the Syrian Republic's independence.

It also attached the hitherto independent territories of Lattaquia and Djebel Druse to Syria under guarantees of autonomy.—Havas.

Jewel Smuggling Gang Discovered

Cakes Used to Hide Jewels Sent to London

Budapest, July 9.

Police at Oldenburg are believed to be on the trail of a widely ramified organization engaged in jewel smuggling, according to reports received here from that city.

An unusual number of small packages addressed to persons in London, and declared to have been passed by the Customs attracted the attention of postal officials. One of the packages was opened. It contained a number of small cakes, and concealed in the cakes were various precious stones, including diamonds and pearls. —Trans-Ocean.

Turkey Joins Armed Peace Front

Minister Says Country Will Fight for Rights

Ankara, July 9.

"Our motto is: Peace among us, peace with our neighbours"—but should anyone try to make for us peace more expensive than war, we will show that we know how to fight and how to win," the Foreign Minister M. Sarajoglu declared in a speech before the Grand National Assembly today.

"We have now abandoned our traditional policy which consisted in seeking peace in neutrality. We have now joined the armed peace front. This decision was taken following the crisis which culminated in the disappearance of Albania—a country which does not possess any riches and is much less covetable than Turkey itself", the Minister pursued.

Answering the attacks launched against Turkey by the totalitarian press, M. Sarajoglu declared: "Is it not somewhat paradoxical to see the British-Turkish alliance criticized by those people who advocate an alliance between Germany and Great Britain."

He concluded his speech announcing that the last negotiations are being carried out for the conclusion of a permanent Franco-British-Turkish Pact.—Havas.

New Flying Boat

American Craft Built for R.A.F. Purposes

San Diego, July 9.

The new twin-motored Consolidated flying boat will take off from here today on a 3,300 mile non-stop flight to Botwood, Newfoundland, en route to Felixstone where it will be turned over to the Royal Air Force for experimental purposes.

The giant plane, with a reported cruising range of 300 miles per hour, is one of the most advanced commercial planes ever developed in the United States.—United Press.

Czechs to Register Precious Metals

Prague, July 9.

The Government of the Protectorate of Bohemia and Moravia (Czechoslovakia) has issued a decree ordering compulsory registration of all foreign currencies, precious metals, bonds and credit balances held by Czechs abroad. These are to be sold to the Government.—Reuter.

New Fleet Street News Clearing House Commences Operations

Headquarters of Reuters and Press Association Now Housed in New Building

London, July 9.

The world's most up-to-date news clearing house begins operations today in Fleet Street, which is London's newspaper land.

This is the new headquarters of Reuters and the Press Association, into which building news will flow in an uninterrupted stream for 24 hours a day and thence be redistributed to the principal papers in Great Britain, the Empire, the Continent of Europe, and the world generally.

The nine-floor building, the exterior of which was designed by the President of the Royal Academy, Sir Edwin Lutyens, houses the most modern devices for the swift collection and distribution of news, and also accommodates numerous Empire and foreign news organizations allied to Reuters.

Nearly 16 years ago Reuters, having outgrown their century-old home in the City, transferred their central administration and international news department to the Reuter building on Thames Embankment.

Within a few years the growth of the agency's operations made it clear that the new premises would not be long adequate.

Finally, it was decided that Reuters and the Press Association, who were also becoming cramped in their quarters, should face the housing problem together.

70 Years' Relationship

Their relationship dates back to the birth of the Press Association (the principal domestic news agency of Great Britain) 70 years ago, when they turned at once to Reuters as the source of their Imperial and foreign news.

More recently, the two concerns have consolidated their joint working to the utmost extent, compatible with their respective spheres of activity and consistent with their separate identities.

The new building is an established joint news pool for the two agencies, while also benefitting from this pool will be the British overseas and foreign agencies who have all been linked with Reuters ever since each was established, and who are now all accommodated under one roof. The opening of this nerve centre of world news marks a milestone in the history of news-agency enterprise.—Reuter.

Mexico Increasing Oil Exports

Barter Arrangements and Ordinary Sales Restoring Total to Normal

Mexico City, July 8.

"The export of Mexican oil is being progressively organized and tends to return to normal conditions," a high Administration official told Havas today.

"Not only have we contracted for the greater part of our oil production to go to Germany and Italy by means of barter arrangements, but we have also sold millions of dollars' worth of oil to the United States, who pays cash. We are only waiting for President Lazaro Cardenas to return here to Mexico City to make final arrangements to organise exports.

"We have already reached agreement with an important Brazilian firm to sell it 25,000,000 barrels of oil, for which payment will be made in cash. And a group of small, independent oilfield owners, in agreement with the National Sales Administration, has just negotiated with the Davis Company for the sale of 22,000 barrels of oil to Europe.

"This oil cannot be the object of reprisals by the expropriated American companies because it does not come from their wells," the official added.

"We hope to be able to operate in 18 months' time a pipeline from the Minatitlan oilfields to the port of Salina Cruz on the Pacific coast. This will facilitate our oil exports to the Far East and South America. If the Mexican oil industry had no other problems than those of exportation, we could now say that we had solved the whole question.

"A new accord with the expropriated companies, providing for their more or less direct intervention in the industry, could then be deliberately avoided," the official concluded his interview.—Havas.

Negotiations Continue

Washington, July 8.

Parleys on the long-pending Mexican oil expropriation issue were continued here today as Senor L. Quintanilla, Mexican Charge d'Affaires, conferred with Mr. Sumner Welles, Assistant Secretary of State.

The conference was purely "informative," it was later declared. Conversations were said to have been "satisfactory."

These parleys repercussions on the U.S. Government's attitude towards continuing foreign silver purchases were stated to be "one of the most important points in diplomatic relations between the United States and Mexico."

Since there is strong Senatorial opposition to buying of silver abroad, the Administration now has the task of convincing the Senate Finance Sub-Committee, presently debating on the problem, that curtailment of its purchase policy would react unfavourably on the expropriation issue. —Havas.

Britain in Position To Cry "Halt"

Ministers Stress Limit of Patience Has Been Reached

London, July 8.

Two British Ministers delivered significant addresses today, and in both there was one note struck over and over again, an undercurrent of meaning which stressed that the limit of patience has been reached and that Britain is now in a position to say "Halt!" to further aggression.

At Newcastle this afternoon, Mr. Walter Wolmersley, Minister of Pensions, told his listeners: "We have been conciliatory, but there comes a point when even the most peaceful-minded person considers that a halt must be called."

Captain Austin U.M. Hudson, Parliamentary Secretary for the Ministry of Transport, voiced similar sentiments at Nottingham.

"We have reason to believe," he said, "that there is now no fear that any form of hostile action can bring our transport system to a standstill. Railways will be taken over and plans to that end have been worked out.

"Ports may be damaged or put out of action, and plans have been made so that shipping can be diverted to other places with the least delay or confusion. We are now so strong, he concluded confidently, "that the axis powers cannot possibly win."—Havas.

Arabian Oil Offered For German Arms

Emissary in Germany Bound On Barter Mission

Cairo, July 8.

Saudi Arabian oil was being offered the Reich in exchange for German arms and munitions, informed political quarters stated today commenting on the "real reasons" for the Berlin visit now being paid by Khalid al Hud, Counsellor to King Ibn Saud.

The special delegate is assertedly seeking a permit authorising German war exports to Saudi Arabia, in exchange for which the Reich would obtain oilfield concessions, which have already been offered to Japan on similar conditions.

No straight political mission was entrusted Khalid al Hud, the same quarters added, but it was held probably that the Palestine question would be raised in the course of future conversations.—Havas.

Soviet Unions Still Outside Pale

Affiliation With World Body Rejected at Zurich

Zurich, July 8.

A British motion, proposing that Soviet trade unions should be affiliated to the International Federation of Trade Unions, was rejected at today's session of the Federation's Conference. The voting was 46 votes to 37.

The proposal was made by Mr. George Hicks, Leader of the British Building Workers' Union, and was supported by Norway and France. The American Federation of Labour, however, opposed it.—Reuter.

"Deficiency of information in Japanese English-language newspapers is completed very successfully by an English newspaper in Kobe The Japan Chronicle . . on its pages can often be found criticisms of the political and economic actions of the Japanese Government and various other information which gives the opportunity to observe and to analyse the Japanese economic situation. In addition to the usual material obtainable from all the Japanese English-language newspapers. The Japan Chronicle gives a very detailed and comprehensive review of the foreign trade of Japan. It regularly prints statistics pertaining to Japanese exports and the state of the home market." — Extracts from U.S.S.R. Chamber of Commerce Journal.
